Communist Army Hits Nanking

Looters Run Wild In City

Nationalist Troops Flee

BULLETIN

SHANGHAI — (AP) — Chinese communist troops today triumphantly occupied Nanking, reports filtering in from that Nationalist capital said. Red troops in a victorious sweep across the Yangtze also were said to be nearing Shanghai, a second great center of Nationalist power.

NANKING — (AP) — Thousands of communist troops reached the open gates of this loot-torn, firelit Chinese capital last night and prepared for a triumphant entry this morning.

The 100,000 government troops in and around Nanking had fled southward Saturday morning, pausing only to blow up the railway station and set the waterfront aflame.

Looters quickly went to work. Wild orgies of robbery and killing lasted all day Saturday.

By nightfall an emergency "peace preservation committee" headed by Gen. Ma Chin-Yuan, a former government division commander, had restored a semblance of order and arranged by radio for the communist entry.

Ma announced shortly before midnight that the Reds had begun crossing from the north bank of the Yangtze river to Shang Hsin Ho, three miles from Nanking's west gate.

AWAIT DAYLIGHT

By the time of his announcement several thousand were over the big river, waiting to enter by daylight.

Ma said he did not think the Reds would enter sooner, although the gates stood open and they knew they could walk in whenever they chose.

Ma said he was arranging a formal welcome and that his committee early today was drafting slogans of greetings.

Darkness and volunteer patrols of students and citizens finally halted most of the looting in Nanking.

Sporadic rifle fire still crackled in the streets however, and the bodies of looters lay where they had been slain.

Among the homes ransacked in the traditional Chinese reaction to disaster was that of acting President Li Tsung-Jen.

Li's family in Hong Kong announced that he had reached Canton, provisional capital 700 miles south of Nanking.

Late in the night tremendous explosions and fires on the north bank of the Yangtze shook and illuminated Nanking.

Will Fight For Vessel

SHANGHAI —(AP)— The British consul general last night strongly implied that force would be used if necessary to rescue the sloop Amethyst and its 60 remaining personnel from a Chinese communist trap in the Yangtze river.

The communist radio in Peiping meanwhile charged that the four British ships shot up by the Reds since Wednesday were fired upon because they joined the Nationalists in the war.

A British foreign office spokesman in London indignantly denied this.

The death toll aboard the four British ships was officially put at 43, instead of the previous 44. More than 80 British seamen were wounded, some of them critically. The communists said they themselves suffered 252 casualties and damage to their positions.

The 1,375-ton Amethyst, first fired upon Wednesday morning as she sought to reach Nanking to supply and protect British embassy personnel, was still pinned in the river about 50 miles east of Nanking.

The communists now hold both banks and have fired on the little vessel every time she moves in either direction. She was badly crippled by the fire but still has power.

State Head Gives Bird To Cat Bill

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., — (AP) — Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson yesterday gave the bird to the "cat bill."

He scratched an executive veto on the measure that would have declared cats running-at-large a public nuisance. Sponsors wanted it to protect insect-eating birds.

"The problem of cat versus bird is as old as time," Stevenson said in his veto message.

"If we attempt to resolve it by legislation," he continued, "who knows but what we may be called upon to take sides as well in the age old problems of dog versus cat, bird versus bird, even bird versus worm."

Police Seek Solution of Burglaries

Wave of Crime On Upswing

Mansfield police are investigating three major burglaries and a number of lesser ones that have occurred in April as crime here continues upward.

Still unsolved by police is the burglary that occurred on April 15 at the Holland Furnace company, 48 South Mulberry street. Stolen was $243 in cash and check. Entrance to the building was gained by breaking a rear window.

Police are continuing their investigation of the burglary at the public library on April 22. Reported missing after entrance was gained through a window, was $55 in cash.

On April 11 a talkative robber snatched an undisclosed amount of cash and checks from the safe at the Tracy-Massa Insurance agency while J. E. Massa, owner of the agency was talking on the telephone in the office.

He was chased from the building, but made a get-away and has not yet been apprehended.

Police have also been plagued with a number of lesser burglaries. A large number of these have been accessories stolen from automobiles. There has been several strong-arm robberies.

Police Chief Jesse J. Steele told city council at its April meeting that crime was increasing in Mansfield during his request for more police personnel.

The chief blames this increase in crime, both in Mansfield and throughout the United States, on the growing number of persons jobless as industry reverts to pre-war employment levels.

Hippo Happy, Won't Leave Chicago Zoo

CHICAGO, Ill.—(AP)—You can't hurry a hippotumus—especially if the hippo doesn't want to hurry.

"Snooky," a female hippo weighing between 1,800 and 2,000 pounds, was on a "sit-down" strike yesterday while Columbus zoo officials anxiously awaited its shipment to Ohio.

"Snooky"—purchased by the Columbus Zooligical society recently—doesn't want to go to Ohio, apparently. According to Chicago newspapermen, she wants a photograph of "Pete" before she will move an inch. She's intended as a playmate for "Pete", male hippo at the Columbus zoo.

Earl F. Davis, Columbus zoo superintendent and several helpers arrived at Brookfield zoo here last Tuesday, ready to take "Snooky" to Ohio by truck.

Davis went back to Columbus to wait it out. "Telephone me," he told local zoo authorities, "when Snooky gets in the crate. I'm going home and get some sleep!"

Workers Set New Record

House Painted In 2½ Minutes

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—(AP)—A paralyzed war veteran sat in a GI wheelchair yesterday with his girl by his side, and watched 96 brush-flailing painters break a world's record for modern house painting.

Two minutes and 32 seconds after the opening gun was fired, Bob Hoelzle's five-room dream cottage was a gleaming white.

Three tiers of panting, bespattered workmen stopped and wiped paint from their eyes and faces. A crowd sprinkled with many pairs of young lovers sent up a cheer. Frances Elaine Noll, who is going to be married to Bob in June, leaped up and down and clapped her hands with laughter.

"White houses are the nicest," she said.

"I'm a pretty lucky guy," said Bob.

A Japanese bullet struck him in the spine when he was with the marines on Okinawa, and he is paralyzed from the waist down.

The five-room Cape Cod style cottage is the gift of about 1,000 of Bob's friends and neighbors.

John Pecoraro, business agent of Local 834, Painters and Decorators union (AFL) was even more excited than Bob.

3 Awarded Music Honors

Three Mansfield girls won top ratings in music competition at Otterbein college yesterday, while Shelby's girl ensemble took honors in the Class B division.

Patricia Mumford, Jean A. Robinson, and Gracann Fogle took honors as mezzo sopranos, the Associated Press reported, with Miss Mumford receiving a rating of "superior."

Professor Lee Shackson, head of Otterbein's music department, chairman of the auditions, said 313 soloists and 118 ensembles participated.

Contestants were divided into three groups, according to the enrollment of their schools.

Outdoor Activities on Way

City Parks Improved For Summer Season

Mansfield's park equipment is in the best shape it has been since before the war, Superintendent of Parks Frank R. Burton said yesterday. Burton, in making a summary of the city park division's activities in preparation for the official opening on Decoration Day, said he expects more persons to use the parks this summer than ever before.

Burton said the parks would be open for certain activities before the May 30th date, such as county school picnics and similar functions.

The ball diamonds and blacktop tennis courts are in use now Burton said.

Over the winter and spring, improvements include rolling out all the ball diamonds, painting 500 outside benches, installing new noiseless bearing hangers in the swings at North lake park and the completion of the restroom at Maple lake.

Six trees were moved into Central park to replace dead ones. Three of these new trees are flowering dogwood from the airport property. Burton said they will bloom in a few weeks.

Out of the park board's $50,000 budget Burton said $500 was spent for new parts for playground equipment repair and replacement.

Two sets of swings formerly at Prospect school playground have been installed at the South Boulevards park. Burton said that later in the year brick outdoor ovens and wooden picnic tables would be constructed at South Boulevards.

At John Todd park the department is going to move in three to 4,000 yards of dirt to fill in and build up the ground to make it large enough for a junior ball diamond. Later more filling operations will make it suitable for adult use. The council has set $2,000 aside for that purpose.

The department has spent $2,000 in paving the blacktop drive at South Park, Burton said.

2 Escapers Abandon Car

The car used by two Ohio State reformatory escapers was found abandoned yesterday on the Kerr road, one mile north of Lucas, sheriff's deputies reported.

The escapers, Eugene Van Bibber, 23, of Franklin county, and Leo Francis Evans, 19, of Stark county, made their getaway Thursday afternoon in the car owned by a guard, Arthur Garver.

The report of the abandoned car parked on the Kerr road came from Ben Linn, 246 Rhine avenue, a driver for the Page Dairy company. Sheriff E. P. Long and Deputy Randall Bliss went to the scene and had the car brought to Mansfield.

Bliss said the car was not damaged and that it had plenty of gasoline in the tank. The ignition wires had been crossed by the escapers to get the car started, Bliss said.

Pittsburgh Gets 'Parking' Funds

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Pittsburgh yesterday got a $4,000,000 gift to provide a park and an underground parking garage in the heart of the Golden Triangle.

The money was given by the A. W. Mellon Educational Charitable trust, and the Sarah Mellon Scaife and Richard King Mellon foundations.

The city will use the money to purchase and develop a park on the property bounded by William Penn way, Oliver avenue, Smithfield street and Sixth avenue.

Food Costs Mount

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Columbus is paying 35.1 per cent more for food now than in mid-June 1946 and 109.2 per cent more than in August, 1939.

Probers Bare New Spy Ring

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The House un-American Activities committee produced last night documentary evidence and testimony under oath that the Polish embassy here has been a nest for spies.

Twenty-seven documents and the testimony were supplied by Gen. Izyador Rudolf Modelski, a former embassy official whose appointment backfired on Poland's communist regime.

The testimony points to at least two espionage networks operating out of the embassy, one supposedly specializing in atomic secrets, the other branching into Canada and Mexico.

Modelski's papers and what he said are included in an official committee report.

WIDE COVERAGE

It indicates the Poles were after everything from humdrum economic figures to military super-secrets. His story told of a Russian spy master pulling the strings. There is no measure of how successful they were. Polish embassy officials could not be reached for comment.

Modelski said he collected the documents dealing with spying from May 1946 to last August while he was military attache at the Washington embassy.

The general related he walked out with the documents after he broke officially with the Red-dominated government in Warsaw.

Some of Modelski's papers were sent in code. Some were stamped "Top Secret." One said it should be destroyed after it was read.

Judge Raps UE 'Treason'

Two More Fined In Fawick Row

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The list of contempt of court convictions in the Fawick Airflex company strike rose to 34 yesterday as unionists studied a judge's charge of "cold treason."

Common Pleas Judge James C. Connell said the reason he previously had denied bail to the convicted unionists was because they were guilty of treason.

No "hot treason," he explained, but "cold treason."

He made the statement in court as he convicted two other members of the CIO United Electrical Workers of violating a picketing injunction at the strike-bound plant.

Fred Keller, an international representative of the union, was fined $1,500 and sentenced to jail for 30 days. Walter Balasz received 10 days and a $500 fine.

The 34 contempt convictions involve 28 persons, six of them having been convicted twice.

Mansfield Realtor Dies

Sherman Marchant, 80, of 109 Stewart avenue, retired Mansfield realtor, died yesterday afternoon at his home following a lingering illness.

Born at Milledgeville, O., on Dec. 25, 1868, he came to Mansfield 30 years ago and at one time was associated with the George C. Kyle Realty company here.

He is survived by one son, Charles W. Marchant, Mansfield; three daughters, Mrs. A. L. Faye, Mansfield; Mrs. H. B. Weber, of Forest, O., and Mrs. Cloyd Hollinger, of Kenton, O., and 13 grandchildren. Services will be conducted at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday at the Finefrock funeral home.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman paid surprise visits yesterday to former Secretary of Defense James V. Forrestal and three other official patients at the naval hospital at nearby Bethesda, Md.

Clevelanders Score High; Disqualified

By FRED THARP
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

The Mansfield Senior high school track and field team yesterday ended a long victory drought in the famed Mansfield Relays, taking its first championship since 1933 and its sixth in the history of the event.

Superb team balance enabled the Tygers to reap big dividends as they managed only two first places. Mansfield scored in 12 of the 18 events with 19 youngsters breaking into the scoring column.

The victory, however, resulted from a disqualification of two members of the Cleveland Central outfit which apparently finished the two-day meet with 41 points. But the Trojans were severed from 17 points when officials found that two Cleveland athletes had competed in four track events.

Mansfield seemed to have the championship all signed and sealed with three events left on the docket. Central, a surprise power, picked up 19 points in those three events. A first in the mile relay, the final event, pushed the lake front school around the Tygers.

Someone questioned the eligibility of the Cleveland pair and a 45-minute rhubarb ensued between coaches, officials and several overzealous spectators. Rules state that an athlete may compete in only three running and one field event, but the mile team race was the fourth running go for Ronald Taylor and Ken Mischal.

Both youngsters were quickly ruled off by veteran Referee Dick Kroesen of Cleveland, but the argument revolved around what to do with the points Taylor and Mischal scored in other events. A check of the rule book showed that all of their points would have to be forfeited and the over-all standings were shaken up.

The Cleveland school dropped the mile-relay title, lost seven points in the low hurdles, one in the high sticks and three in the shuttle-hurdle race. That drastic slash shoved the Trojans back into third place with 24 points, just 1/5 over Cleveland East Tech.

Springfield's defending champions wound up in second place with 32 14/15 points in the field of 64 schools and 900 athletes. Actually 34 of the schools broke into the point list for the 18th running of the biggest independent scholastic track classic in the nation.

TWO RECORDS FALL

Intermittent rains and high winds should have played havoc with the times, but two records fell and several others were endangered. Gene Strathman, Brush high school, made the biggest indentation when he fractured the discus record twice. He heaved the "platter" 163 feet, 9 inches in the prelims and then came back with a sweet toss of 173 feet, 10 inches, to better the old mark by 21 feet, 7 inches.

Jim Hiettko of Conneaut also broke the old record with a heave of 155 feet, 2 inches.

Ed McCadden, Cleveland East Tech, snapped the high hurdle mark in convincing fashion, but he had to snap A. C. Jenkins'

Orders Halt To Building Big Carrier

Johnson Backs Air Force Stand

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A terse and crisply-worded order from Defense Secretary Johnson yesterday ended the navy's building of a colossal aircraft carrier whose planes could have engaged in strategic bombing with atomic weapons.

Johnson, after consultation with President Truman and the joint chiefs of staff, directed Navy Secretary Sullivan to order his department to discontinue construction of the 65,000-ton, $189,000,000 carrier "at once."

The keel of the carrier was laid only last Monday in the yards of the Virginia firm which had the contract, the Newport News Shipbuilding corporation.

Johnson's order constituted a victory of the first magnitude for the air force in its long dispute with the navy over what targets naval aircraft should attack in a war.

Reduced to its simplest form, the question was: Should the navy be allowed to build a carrier so big that heavy, small-range bombers could be launched from its flight deck to attack cities and factories?

This, the air force had contended, was strategic bombing which should be done by the far-reaching, land-based bombers of the USAF such as the 9-36, the B-50 and B-29.

Cripple Dies As Auto Hits Wheel Chair

ZANESVILLE — (AP) — A car struck and killed a 70-year-old crippled man in his wheel chair at Irville, nine miles northwest of here, yesterday.

Muskingum county Sheriff Harry Bealmear said Richard Snyder was wheeling himself home after visiting a neighbor. The accident occurred along a street which did not have sidewalks.

Bealmear said he arrested Harry Bay, 36, of near Irville, about two hours after the accident. He said a fender and head light on Bay's automobile were damaged.

The sheriff said Bay admitted striking the one-legged man and driving away. No charges have been filed.

Report Young Girl Missing

City police received a report at 8 p. m. last night that a Mansfield girl, adopted in 1946 by a Miller street couple, is missing from her home.

Police expressed belief that 11-year-old Doris Mosley Kale might have run away from home to visit her former parents in Pittsburgh. Clothing missing from her room lent support to this belief. The child is the adopted daughter of Mrs. James B. Kale, 204 Miller street.

When last seen she was wearing a dark fingertip coat and a head scarf. The child is slender and has a light complexion.

More than 900 pupils of St. Peter's parochial schools returned to classes Wednesday after they were dismissed for Good Friday and Easter holidays April 14.

All rural school students returned to classes last Monday morning.

As public school pupils return to school tomorrow, they will be starting the final semester of the 1948-49 school term.

Shanghaied Tug Owner Gets Revenge

Reds Trapped Trying to Run Blockade

BERLIN — (AP) — The British caught the Russians trying to slip canal boat traffic through the counter-blockade of Berlin yesterday.

A German tugboat operator, shanghaied by the Russians and pressed into the blockade running traffic, set the trap.

The outcome was that British Maj. Gen. G. K. Bourne sent an official protest to the Russians alleging a violation of the British zone.

Eastern Germans have been calling for relaxation of the west's blockade of the eastern zone, which was ordered after the Russians blockaded Berlin. The Germans have indicated the eastern zone is feeling the squeeze.

The British said this is what happened:

Erich Forehlich of the British sector took his tugboat down the river Spree to the Soviet sector April 4 to pick up some materials for his boat. He was detained.

On April 19, Forehlich was ordered to tow three Soviet barges through British sector waters to Potsdam, in the Soviet sector. Armed Russian soldiers were place on the barges, though it is against four-power agreements for armed soldiers to go into another sector.

Forehlich engineered a breakdown of his engine and had to be towed back from Potsdam. When he got opposite the Charlottenburg locks in the British sector he cast off from the Russian-manned tug and shouted for British police.

A military police officer ordered a Russian soldier aboard the towing tug to leave. The soldier threatened the officer and British police disarmed him. Soviet troops were instructed to come and get him.

Jordan-Watkins Nuptials Held In St. Peter's Church Here

MSGR. R. C. Goebel officiated for the formal double ring wedding ceremony of Miss Margaret Jean Jordan and Carroll L. Watkins Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock in St. Peter's Roman Catholic church. Palms, ferns and two altar vases filled with white flowers banked the altar. The family pews were marked with white satin bows.

Miss Jordan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Jordan, 1420 Springmill road, and Mr. Watkins is the son of Mrs. Mable Watkins, 284 Superior street.

Raymond Baum presided at the organ for the nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of white slipper satin made in the period style. The tight fitting bodice buttoned in the back with self covered buttons, extending from the neckline to the end of the peplum. A yoke of nylon net covered the shoulders and was edged with hand cut lace in a rose petal design. A tiny ruffle of lace fitted up close to the neck. A peplum of deep folds below the waist line covered the skirt. The front of the skirt was straight with a very full back, extending into a wide long train. Tight fitting sleeves came to points over the hands.

With this gown, the bride wore a French tulle imported veil in two tiers of fingertip length. The head dress was made of shirred tulle caught at the sides with handmade matching material. Lace butterflies edged with small imported pearls centered with rhinestones were also on the head piece. A gold antique cross belonging to the bride's grandmother was the only jewelry worn by Miss Jordan.

A white orchid was carried by the bride on her Holy Communion prayer book.

Miss Mary E. Parry, aunt of the bride, was her maid of honor. She wore a pale green organdy gown of colonial style. The gown had a tight fitted bodice with a boat neckline. Rows of ruffles extended to the floor from the waistline. With this she wore a picture hat of green organdy. The open crown had a row of handmade daisies and long streamers which fell to the waist. Little Miss Kathleen Jordan, sister of the bride, wore a gown and picture hat in yellow organdy. Her ensemble was made in identical style as the maid-of-honor's.

A colonial style bouquet of yellow daisies was carried by Miss Parry, and the flower girl carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies.

Mrs. Jordan chose a navy blue crepe dress with navy accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Watkins was attired in a two piece green suit with pink accessories. Both mothers had corsages of pink rosebuds.

Thomas Brown, a close friend of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Guests were escorted to their pews by Joseph R. Parry, uncle of the bride, and Anthony Buzenski, a close friend of the couple.

A wedding breakfast for the immediate families and a few close friends was held in Liberty park pavilion following the wedding ceremony. In the afternoon a reception for 150 guests was held. Miss Bonnie Bonecutter provided the music.

The bride's table was centered with a five tiered wedding cake topped with a dove with two miniature wedding rings in its beak. The base of the cake was surrounded with fern and sweetpeas. Presiding at the table were Mrs. Jacob Troupe, Miss Charlene Watkins, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Rose Toni, cousin of the bride, and Miss Lucy Olivieri, also a cousin of the bride.

For traveling through the southern states, the new Mrs. Watkins chose a navy blue two piece dress of quilted taffeta. Gray and pink accessories and a grey topper completed her outfit. She wore the white orchid carried during the wedding ceremony.

They will be at home after the first of May on Reed street.

Mrs. Watkins is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and employed as clerk in the office at the Ideal Electric and Manufacturing company. Mr. Watkins, also a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, served with the U. S. Marine Corps 39 months. He attended the Refrigeration and Airconditioning Instutute in Chicago, Illinois. He is an employe of the Westinghouse Electric Corporation.

Out-of-town guests present at the wedding were from Columbus, Cleveland, Mt. Vernon and Marion, Ohio.

Horoscope

For Sunday, May 1

SUNDAY'S horoscope encourages concentration and activities devoted to the conventional affairs of the sabbath day since finer forces, faculties and inclinations naturally turn in this direction. Imagination, fancy, ideals and aspiration may be stimulated in creative lines in which there may be needed some form of constructive work. At the same time on workaday matters or material ambitions the judgment may be faulty, chaotic and obscure. Errors and complexities grow from wrong decisions, with danger from distortion, false reports, slanders, misunderstandings.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find their feelings, emotions and inclinations centered on the fantastic, bizarre, and mysterious, in which creative powers may be productive, although complex or curious. Poetry, music, art, all cultural aims, enjoy acute drives yet it is probable that an adverse aspect could nip such efforts "in the bud," as hinderance, limitation, distortions or confused values could block accomplishment. There are hints of slander, twisted reports, trouble with writings or documents, all combining to bring grief and regrets. Peculiar contacts or misrepresentation should be guarded against.

A child born on this day, while talented and ambitious in exceptional creative lines—artistic, poetic, musical—its judgment may be faulty, and its product subject to adverse criticism.

Stammerer Devises Method To Overcome S-s-tut-tering

WINTER PARK, Fla. — (AP) — A woman with 60 years of stammering in her family has teamed with her husband to devote their finances and the latter years of their lives to correcting the stuttering of others.

She is 54-year-old Eleanor Weston Emery, he Theodore, 60. They have been helping children and adults since 1935.

Mrs. Emery's eldest brother was a stammerer. She herself stammered so badly she could obtain no formal education and had to do with private tutors and several years abroad. Her first son, now 28, still stammers a little. Two other sons never stuttered.

Her first son was growing up when she finally realized no one could cure her—that she had to help herself and her son. She now speaks clearly. Her husband has a speech hesitancy, but says it comes from difficulty in choosing the right word in conversation "and I guess association with stutterers hasn't helped, either."

The two conduct the non-profit Emery institute here, incorporated under Florida law and so recognized by the United States treasury department. On the advisory committee are such persons as Author Irving Bacheller and Dr. Kathryn Abbey Hanna, also a professor at Rollins college here; Dr. Eugene R. Smith, Rollins trustee; and the Rt. Rev. Oliver L. Loring, Episcopal bishop of the diocese of Maine.

"Strangely, Mrs. Emery says, "a stammerer can talk perfectly when he is alone, when very angry, usually while singing or when absolutely unconscious of self. He can always talk to a pet without stammering when he is alone with it.

Small Firms Lack Leader Development

CHICAGO—(AP)—Why does big business absorb small firms in the $250,000 to $5,000,000 class?

"Because," says a management research firm, "small business has failed to develop" an executive hierarchy capable of running it after the death of the founder.

Dr. Burleigh B. Gardner, president of Social Research, Inc., which includes psychologists, anthropologists and sociologists, headed a survey of the question.

In an interview, Dr. Gardner cited reports of President Truman's council of economic advisers. These he quoted as saying:

"Year by year the control of the market is passing more largely into the hands of the large corporations, not only by internal growth but by the absorption of the small firms."

Noting that the council's report said small firms can compete successfully, Dr. Gardner asked: "If they can compete successfully, why is the process of absorption continuing?"

His answer, based on the survey of a number of firms in the $250,000-$5,000,000 assets range is this:

"One fact stands out in startling fashion, that many of these firms are basically owner-managed operations with little provision for the development of an executive organization able to operate the business in event of the death of the president.

"The fact is that with many of the one-man firms the founder was a man of great ability and tremendous energy. In the early stages, he was everything—he knew everything, could do every job, and made every decision.

"As the organization grew, he continued to dominate. He not only felt he could do everything better than everyone else, but he also loved to do it.

"But at no time did he give real thought to building a managerial organization. His sons had titles, but he still did everything.

"They never learned to make decisions, to carry real responsibility, to make errors and learn thereby, nor to fight their way up in the competitive world.

"So when the founder dies, the organization is left without real leadership. Morale and efficiency decline. Before anyone is quite aware of the seriousness of the situation, the business has lost its competitive position, and all the family can do is sell out—and the only capital waiting for such a buy is usually the large corporation."

Dr. Gardner said that in many such cases, responsibility falls on a plant manager who has been trained to "let the old man do it, and who consequently has lost the vision or versatility necessary in competition."

When a second line man is suddenly thrown into such a position, Dr. Gardner added, he usually makes "genuine attempts to take over roles for which he is unprepared. This leads to emotional strain which cuts his judgment capacity, or he falls back on the judgment of the owners or the board of directors, neither of which is equipped for rapid decision.

"Sometimes cliques, which have been held down by the old man's drive, further disrupt the organization.

"The remedies," Dr. Gardner concluded, "are obvious: find and develop executive talent through the various testing processes now available; and be sure that the old man, in himself, really understands the functioning of his organization."

Jap Official Owns Store

TOKYO — (AP) — Ichiro Honda is something of a symbol of postwar Japan.

The 54-year-old Honda is a member of the Diet. Recently he was appointed cabinet minister without portfolio. He is expected to handle reorganization of Japan's bureaucracy, which will entail firing thousands of surplus government employes.

Yet Honda himself runs a candy store to try to make ends meet.

He and his wife live upstairs over the store in Tokyo's Fukagawa section. Sharing their cramped quarters are his son, two daughters and a grandson.

Like a good many people, Honda is struggling just to break even. His salary in the Diet equals about $100 a year, so he has to keep store to live.

"It means I don't have to borrow from friends or relatives," he said, implying that his store made it easier to turn down bribes that have been the downfall of many a postwar politician.

Honda has had better training for an austere life than many other politicians. From a poor family, he worked his way through school and college, finally getting a law degree from Chuo university.

Now this mild-mannered man with the graying mustache has been handed one of the touchiest problems facing the government. In attempting to streamline the government's bureaucratic structure and save money, he is expected to have to take the responsibility for putting several thousand people out of thir jobs.

Honda dosn't seem to mind the burden. In the early morning and late afternoon he still tends store by sitting out in front, reading the papers and talking to passersby.

ADVANCE WORK — There's a great amount of work to be done before a play can be presented. In addition to rehearsals, sets must be constructed, lighting arrangements made and a host of other jobs handler by volunteer technicians. These candid-camera exhibitions show some of the advance activities of the Community Players as they prepare for their forthcoming presentation, "Laura."

Players Offer Mystery As Season Finale

By ANN SCHOENMAN

Murder! Mystery! Drama! This is just a portion of what Mansfield audiences have in store at the Community Players' production of "Laura," Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Vera Caspary's and George Sklar's play is a mystery from the time the curtain goes up until the last scene of the last act. The group has chosen this skill-testing play to close their successful season.

Laura Hunt, beautiful New York advertising agent, has been murdered, and it's Ruhland Isaly's job as the relentless, hard working and brilliant detective, Mark McPherson, to find the killer. Ruhland has been associated with the Community Players for several years.

Hal McCuen, who has been both actor and director, has been selected for the role of egotistical Waldo Lydecker. This character was made famous in the movie version by Clifton Webb. Lydecker was an admirer of Laura from their first meeting.

Fred Pearson, who made his first appearance with the Players in "Suspect," has been cast as the murdered woman's fiance, Shelby Carpenter. Shelby is a nervous man bothered by his conscience and worried that a secret of his will be discovered.

Senior high school junior, Lloyd Lewis, will play the lovesick teenager. Danny Dorgan, who believed he was deeply in love with Laura.

Marguerite McConnell, who so excellently portrayed the character role of the maid in "Dear Ruth," will return to the stage as Danny's outraged mother.

Laura's maid, Bessie Clary, will be played by Shirley Anson, verteran from the mystery, "Suspect." Bessie found Laura's body upon arriving to work, and the scene remains stamped in her mind.

An actress from "Ten Little Indians" and "Three's a Family," Marguerite McMullen, will play the part of "a girl." The blue uniform of a policeman will be worn by Bruce McGinty for his second role as an officer of the law. In "Suds In Your Eye" he was also a member of the police force.

Herbert H. Schettler, municipal court judge, is directing the play.

The technical work necessary to every play has been divided among several committees.

Those serving are: make-up, H. H. Schettler, supervisor, Mrs. Robert Ross, chairman, Mrs. Kenneth Cadigan, Mrs. James Guest and Mrs. Paul Cropper jr.; costumes, Mrs. Joseph Ellison, chairman, Mrs. Roy Kent and Mrs. George Sauter; properties, Miss Maurine Beal, chairman, Miss Peggy Reynolds, Miss Marilyn Gernhardt, Miss Eleanor Bond and Miss Carol Bunsey; tickets, Mrs. Trudy Clark, chairman, Miss Joan Kullman and Miss Norma Leppert; stage crew, Walter Perl, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Talcott, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fleming, Kenneth Cowdry, Roger Perl, William Gautier, Andrew Morocchi, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reifenberg, Joseph Mayer, Donald Fatkin, Donald Berger, Charles Spetka, Mrs. Walter Perl, Miss Marge Woodard, Miss Leppert, Miss Helen Kaufman, Miss Betty McGregor, Miss Rita Fisher, Miss Kullman, Mrs. Sauter, and Mrs. Edward Monahan; music, Lawrence Todd; advertising, W. E. Slabaugh; program, Rex Collins and publicity, Miss Ann Schoenman.

Mrs. Bruce McGinty, one of Mansfield's well known portrait painters, was selected to do the painting of Laura.

"timber" victory streak at 10 straight. McCadden, billed as a second Harrison Dillard, travelled the 120 yards in 14.6 seconds, .3 under the record.

Jenkins knocked over the first hurdle, hit the second to fall to sixth, but put on a great burst of speed to cut McCadden's margin to less than a yard. Jenkins was clocked in 14.7.

The big junior Senior high athlete was the meet's individual star. He came back to achor the Tyger shuttle relay team to an easy victory and just miss the record by .1 a second. Then in the 220-yard low hurdles, Jenkins loafed to an easy win to wind up with 11½ points, more than 56 of the schools could muster.

TUCKER SCORES

Little Tommy Tucker, another junior, was second on the Tyger win list with points in four events. Still not in the best of condition, Tucker took a second in the 100, fifth in the 220, fourth in the broad jump and anchored the Tyger 880-yard relay team to a third.

Jim Meister, a third junior, tied for a second in the pole vault while the Tygers picked up thirds in the high jump, four-mile relay and medley relay. Paul Ferguson, Sonny Wadlington, Paul Hammond, Jim Hager and Alan Poorman all placed in two events.

Five schools had been figured to cut a swath in the relays. The quintet included Senior high, Dayton Dunbar, Springfield, Columbus Central and Cleveland East Tech. Their domination was only broken up by the showing of Cleveland Central.

Central scored in only nine events, but managed four first places before the qualification. Springfield hit pay dirt in 11 events.

Donora, Pa., was the only "foreign" entrant to score. Sprinter Warren Walton took a third and a fourth for five points and a tie for 17th place.

Each of the top ten teams took home a 24-inch trophy as more than 220 trophies, belt buckles and medals went to the contestants.

Peace Talk Delegates Cheer Reds

Chinese Victory Wildly Applauded

PARIS — (AP) — The loudest cheers of the four-day-old world peace Congress were given yesterday at the announcement of a communist war victory in China.

Two minutes of wild cheering greeted the statement of the chairman, J. G. Crowther, a British historian, that "we have just learned that the democratic Chinese forces have entirely liberated Nanking."

The delegates sat in stunned silence earlier when one speaker criticized "proletarian bureaucrats" and mixed boos with catcalls when an American, O. John Rogge, said Russia lacks political freedom.

They got their first shock when Harvey Moore, a British lawyer, told them, they could not be for war and peace at the same time and that:

"Proletarian bureaucrats as well as bourgeois bureaucrats will have to learn that people want freedom of the individual, freedom of speech, freedom of elections and freedom to change their government if they want to."

When the delegates sat silent, Moore demanded. "Where are your cheers?"

He got a few then, and went on with the comment:

"I rejoice to see so many communists here advocating peace. It is a great step forward. If you are sincere, you cannot want war. Do you want war to continue in China until the triumph of the democratic forces?"

A chorus os "yes" greeted him, and he continued:

"Do you want peace now?"

There was a chorus of "no."

"Do not deceive yourselves. You cannot be for war (in China) and peace at the same time," the Briton exclaimed.

WCTU Fights Option Bill

Mansfield members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union have started a movement to organize opposition to passage of House Bill 463 by the state legislature.

A meeting of all members of the organization has been scheduled for 2 p. m. Tuesday at the United Presbyterian church.

Bill 463 calls for repeal of a state local option law on 3.2 per cent beer. Under the local option law communities can decide, by a majority vote of citizens, whether they want the sale of such beer in their area.

Stock Mart Pulls Ahead

NEW YORK — (AP) — The stock market pulled ahead on a broad front yesterday.

Gains of fractions to a point or more appeared in almost every group and a few new highs for the year were posted. The improvement cut into losses of 1 to 3 points in Thursday's trading, when the market took one of the sharpest breaks of the year.

A fair amount of business was done, with the total swollen by numerous blocks of 1,000 shares or more which changed hands at the opening. Turnover was at a rate of around 450,000 shares for the two-hour session.

Grains did little of anything on the Board of Trade, lard providing most of the market's interest. Futures of this commodity made fairly sharp gains following an expanded demand at higher prices for loose lard.

Grains moved irregularly over most of the session, but weakened toward the close.

Strength in lard was based, traders said, on reports of a good export demand.

Columbus Administrator Talks to Clubs

Freedom In Sports Cited By Mayor

The sportsmanship advantages of America are the advantages of a free nation, Mayor James A. Rhodes of Columbus told the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs Thursday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The well-known mayor, one of the U. S. officials on the Olympic committee at the Olympic games held in England this past year, stressed the need for continued good sportsmanship. He described the attributes gained on the fields of the various athletic contests as essential to the future security of this country, declaring that this type of participation is the backbone of America.

Members of the Kiwanis club and their visitors, the Rotary club, heard Mayor Rhodes tell of the courtesy extended the Olympic officials and participants during their stay in England.

"This was an example of real sportsmanship from every angle," he remarked, "and proves that the peoples of different nations can get along together."

The mayor, who takes a great deal of interest in all athletics, was introduced by another athlete well known to Mansfield fans, Augie Morningstar, football coach of the Mansfield Tygers.

A. G. Earnshaw acted as program chairman for the combined meeting.

Insurance Firms Bet Billions On American Prosperity

Companies Anticipate Good Times

Business Loans Show Increase

NEW YORK — (AP) — Life insurance companies have placed a $10,000,000,000 bet on American business and industry in the past five years.

They also have wagered heavily on the future of the American farmer.

The bet is that business, industry and agriculture will continue to enjoy good times as they did in the war and immediate postwar years; and that they will be able to pay their debts on schedule.

Life insurance companies now have a $20,000,000,000 stake in business and industry. This is in the form of loans to business and industry and, to a much smaller degree, in actual ownership as represented by stock holdings.

In 1944—five years ago—that stake was only $10,000,000,000.

Total insurance company assets as of Jan. 31 were $55,700,000,000. In other words, the companies have bet 36 per cent of their assets, or $20,000,000,000, that the United States, economically, is a going concern.

Their stake in agriculture is represented by more than $1,000,000,000 in farm mortgages, compared with a little more than $800,000,000 five years ago.

Sweetening the pot to the tune of many billions of dollars in the past few years is not a sentimental gesture on the part of the companies. It is no mere reaction to a wishful prayer that the United States may avoid a large measure of postwar economic unpleasantness.

CAREFUL INVESTORS

Insurance companies are able exponents of the art of gauging the niceties of business changes. They are known for the deftness with which they are able to invest their policyholders' money so as to realize a maximum interest for a minimum risk.

Life insurance's holdings of U. S. government securities on Jan. 31 of this year were at a four-year low. It held $16,631,000,000 of U. S. securities, compared with $19,731,000,000 a year earlier and $21,501,000,000 on the same date in 1947.

Life insurance is not selling the United States treasury short. This is no indication the companies feel any less than they ever did that the United States of America still is the safest investment of all. Government bonds, though, have recently advanced to prices which offer an unusually low return.

With corporate bonds and other forms of corporate indebtedness generally paying higher interest rates than government securities, the fiscal officials of the insurance companies go shopping more and more for investments in private concerns. Safety, of course, still is the prime factor and private securities still get the fine tooth comb treatment.

Government interest in the farmers' problems, plus the fact that the American public is eating more and dressing better than at any time in history, are the factors that make farm mortgages attractive as investments.

Government support of farm prices have given the average farmer a stable and comparatively sizeable income since before World War II.

There are those wo contend that this advantage to the farmer now is wearing a little thin. The life insurance companies apparently feel otherwise. Their holdings in farm mortgages have risen each year from $767,000,000 on Jan. 31, 1946, to $1,017,000,000 on the same date this year.

Among the corporations, the insurance companies have their largest stake in public utilities. Their outstanding loans to public utility concerns totaled $8,513,000,000 as of Jan. 31. Additionally, there were $7,072,000,000 of industrial and miscellaneous loans, $2,952,000,000 in loans to railroads and $1,457,000,000 in equity financing, virtually all of it in preference stock.

SALES NEGOTIATED

A recent development in insurance company investment has been the increased use of negotiated sales of securities by borrowing firms, as contrasted to competitive bidding. Insurance companies prefer negotiation to competitive bidding because interest rates tend to be higher and also, they say, because it offers them a better opportunity of investigating borrowers more thoroughly.

A securities and exchange commission ruling, however, requires that all public utilities securities be sold competitively except by special permission of the state public utility commission involved and the SEC itself.

Within the past few weeks, commissions have denied two utilities permission to sell securities on a privaiately negotiated basis. The commissions held it was not in the public interest.

The Washington (D. C.) commission refused to allow Potomac Electric Power company to sell $37,000,000 of debentures to three insurance companies. A day later the California commission denied the appeal of San Diego Gas and Electric company for exemption from competitive bidding in the sale of 300,000 shares of preferred stock.

Traffic Violators Anger Canton Judge

CANTON —(AP)— For the first time in local history, Traffic Court Judge Gordon J. Burris yesterday started meting out jail sentences to persons convicted of speeding and reckless driving.

Eddie Stinson was given a five-day term for speeding and Edwin G. Rowlance drew a three-day sentence for reckless driving.

Junior Police Cut Juvenile Delinquency

TACOMA, WASH. — (AP) — A tow-haired boy, wearing a big shiny badge and a grin to match, pedals down the street of one of the city's largest and toughest temporary housing districts.

His white bike has red reflectors, mud guards, bells, lights—the works. And on the rear, over the license plate, is a sign that is the local police department's answer to juvenile delinquency—"junior police."

The bike is one of two unit patrol bikes; the boy is one of 60 volunteers, 11 to 15-year olds who have cut juvenile trouble calls to city police 50 per cent in one year of operation.

The young "officers" concentrate on settling petty violations of their own age group. They take over neighborhood fights, thefts and misdemeanors. They direct traffic, patrol entrances, hunt lost children and enforce bicycle rules.

City Policeman Carl L. Petersen, junior police director, believes the organization is the only one of its kinds on the Pacific coast.

"We got it started," said Petersen, "and then found there was a national organization in the east similar to ours."

Patterned after the regular police force, each of the city's two youthful units has a chief, a captain, four sergeants and 24 men. Applicants are screened by Petersen, but the boys themselves have the final say-so on any candidate.

There is no admission fee. Petersen says the boys' money can be better used for the badges, ticket books, special headquarters, private bank account and membership cards of which the boys are so proud—or for the uniforms they are working toward.

Headquarters for the juniors are apart from the city police station, but all violations are reported to Petersen or to Capt. A. E. Farrar, head of the youth guidance division.

"If they can handle their own beefs," said Petersen, "we can keep the offenders out of the police books. The minute a police car drives up to a kid's house, he is tagged as 'bad' and he is likely to turn that way."

The junior police swing into action daily after school and on weekends. The report book sheets that pass daily over Petersen's desk testify of their determination. Here are some examples:

"C. C. stole some food from — (a confectionary). The attendant girl there notified the junior police and we went and talked to the boy and he came back and paid for the cakes he took."

L. S. beat up a small boy that is not very smart. We saw the boy coming home and he told us about it. George and me went over the L. S. house and saw his folks while L. was there and he promised to leave the boys alone after that. His dad said he would make sure of that."

"M. B. was caught shooting his B. B. gun in the gulch. He accidentally hit D. H. in the leg. M.'s gun was taken away because he had been told before about shooting it."

Probably the job the boys enjoy most is directing traffic—with violent arm-waving and whistle-blowing. Only once in awhile will an adult cause trouble about this. If one does, the boys simply report the offender's license number to city police, who settle the matter personally and decisively.

For the most part, adults back the boys to the hilt. Parents think the idea is wonderful, and merchants and theater owners applaud the diminutive cops.

Details of boys are assigned beat near popular school hangouts to keep an eye on disappearing candy and cup cakes. Theater managers have found that junior police with movie passes usually sit by unwatched exits and pass the word when someone tries to sneak in.

The principal aim of the group, of course, is early crime prevention. But police and parents have found it works two ways. Because while the boys seek to keep others out of trouble, they are keeping out of trouble themselves.

COOPERATION — Efforts of Mansfield and Richland county citizens resulted in construction of the Ohio State reformatory in this area. They raised $10,000 for the purchase of 30 acres of land given to the state as the site for the institution, which was originally called the Intermediate Penitentiary. The cornerstone was laid Nov. 4, 1886, but work progressed slowly, extending over a period of years. April 24, 1891, the Ohio legislature changed the name of the Intermediate Penitentiary to Ohio State Reformatory. The reformatory was formally opened on Sept. 15, 1896, and the next day 150 prisoners were transferred there from the Ohio penitentiary. The reformatory, located on the Olivesburg road, now has a population ranging from 2,000 to 3,000. — (News-Journal Photo by Bill Graham).

3 Women Free On Probation

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Three Zanesville women won freedom on probation yesterday on charges of perjury growing out of recent divorce cases here.

Mrs. Vivian Matheny, 29; Mrs. Doris Mabel Bishop, 26, and Mrs. Catherine King Watson, 48, all mothers, were placed on a year's probation by Judge Cecil J. Randall in criminal court.

He told them they were on their "good behavior" for a year.

They were charged with giving false addresses to obtain quick divorces in Franklin county.

Judge Randall sent the women to jail last Wednesday until the probation department could investigate their cases. The three pleaded guilty.

Hearings Ended In GE Labor Argument

TIFFIN —(AP)— The American Arbitration association yesterday ended hearings in the dispute over piece work wages in the tying department at the General Electric company. A decision is expected next month.

The dispute resulted in a three week-strike idling 600 workers in February.

Pledge of Allegiance to Flag

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Pay of State Highway Patrolmen

IN A BILL now pending before the Ohio legislature a pay raise is proposed for members of the state highway patrol, whose compensation is not such as to attract and hold men of the high caliber needed for that work.

The time is past when arguments were needed to support claims of the importance of maintaining and enlarging such a state policing force, and its value is now proved day after day.

It is obvious, however, that service of the highway patrol can be seriously impaired by inability to retain capable men because of inadequate pay, and it is this point that is now receiving attention..

The present starting pay is $219 a month and the average of all patrolmen is $239. It should also be remembered that a member of the patrol is not on a forty-hour week but is subject to call at any time of the day or night, and, in the absence of special emergencies, averages above 60 hours a week.

It is considered that the current pay is not commensurate with the required hours of work, responsibilities and risks which go with the job, and already the patrol has lost a number of desirable men for this reason.

The bill now up for consideration proposed an increase in starting pay to $270 a month, with other commensurate adjustments, and it is a measure which merits thoughtful consideration by legislators.

Raising Level of 'Common Man'

MUCH is heard nowadays about the "common man."

Many projects are geared down to his supposed level of comprehension, and welfare and other enterprises are undertaken for his benefit.

Sir Norman Angell, English writer on economics, speaking at Columbia University recently, said: "The greatest service we can do the common man is to abolish him and make all men uncommon."

In insistence on equality there is danger of bringing everyone down to a dead level of mediocrity. Progress in the right direction would follow the opposite line. The familiar free enterprise slogan, "There's always room at the top," inspires more successful careers than can a philosophy which assures a mythical common man that all his needs and wants will be taken care of by his government.

Books Among Europe's Needs

IN A WELL-RUN community the mind should be fed as well as the body. That explains the wise decision announced by the Co-Operative for American Remittances to Europe, usually known by its singularly appropriate initials, CARE. The organization will henceforth send American technical books to European universities and libraries, whose book resources were scattered or destroyed during the war.

Gifts of money will gladly be accepted, but not of books. The books will be selected by experts; if they came from private generosity, too many might be out-of-date or totally inadequate.

Restoration of Europe's book resources is an eminently practical way to help that continent to help itself.

Gambling Can Become Disease

IT WOULD be hard to find an incident to illustrate more clearly the immorality of gambling than that of the fake kidnapping in Los Angeles. A mother had lost most of her family's savings by betting on horse races. When her husband needed a sum of money, to satisfy his own gambling debts, she faked the kidnapping of her son, for ransom, to provide an explanation for the disappearance of the money.

Gambling seems to affect some people like a disease. They make a winning, or see someone else make a winning, and then become obsessed with the idea that they can win a huge sum by placing a bet at the right time and the right odds. No matter how much they lose, the obsession is unshakable. It undermines the moral fiber of the gambler, leading to deception, theft and embezzlement, and all too often to suicide or murder, or both.

Because gambling is like a disease, it cannot be ignored any more than can diseases caused by germs. It is no less dangerous.

Local History Is Neglected Subject

HOW MANY SCHOOLS teach history of their own state as a special subject? New York schools will henceforth do so, as the state legislature has just passed a law requiring it.

New York has a past that is bound up more closely with the early history of the nation than some of its sister commonwealths. But every state can unfold a tale of pioneer days, and can offer a list of notable sons and daughters who should be known by the school children.

Some school superintendents may say that the course of study is full enough already. But local history is quite as important as some subjects already taught. All history is important. Without it present events can not be understood nor future ones charted.

What Russians Are Being Told

RUSSIAN propagandists seem to be running out of material. They have just printed in the Russian newspapers a horrifying picture of life in Chicago, with slums, lynching and other crimes.

The giveaway comes when Al Capone and Mayor Cermak are mentioned. Mayor Cermak was killed in 1933, and Al Capone has long since ceased to concern anybody.

It turns out that the whole article was written by the novelist Maxim Gorky when he visited the United States in 1931.

It is being proclaimed that, under the British socialized medicine program, bad health is now within the reach of all.

Europeans are said to be turning down an offer of hominy grits—education not having yet extended that far.

A Voice From the Country

British Income Tax Rate Tops World

By LOUIS BROMFIELD

IT IS significant that on the same day that Mr. Truman and his men were asking for more and more expenditures under the Pyramid club deal, Sir Stafford Cripps announced the new British budget. The budget was a bitter pill and it could not be avoided. Both Sir Stafford and the British people had to swallow it or die. It was as if the force of irrefutable economics stood with a gun at their heads. After more than three years, the British people are learning how Pyramid club plans, in which everybody is supposed to win and nobody lose, actually work out. In the British budget there is no reduction of taxes, which in Britain are the highest in the world and touch every worker even if he only makes ten dollars a week.

BROMFIELD

The prices of food were officially raised by the government, which meant that living standards were lowered for everybody, but most of all for the families which have the least money.

Under the free medical care provided by the government, the people of Britain are getting free glasses, wigs and false teeth but incomes are taxed at a basic 45 per cent.

That means that every worker, no matter how little he makes, has 45 per cent taken away from him to pay the state-owned industry and free medical care and regulated prices.

Contrast that with the fact that in this country, millions of workers pay no income tax whatever. Perhaps it would be better, and certainly it would be a great deal cheaper, if the British bought their own glasses, wigs and false teeth.

Last year the British Labor government imposed an income tax of 120 per cent on upper middle-class incomes. That meant that many Britishers, the most able and prosperous as a rule, had to give up the whole of their incomes and liquidate property even to dwellings and farms in order to pay their taxes. The tax was actually a capital levy.

* * *

Somebody Must Pay.

IT IS clear that when that capital is wholly liquidated together with the taxable income derived from it, someone else will have to pay the lost taxes and the someone else will be only the worker and the people in the low income brackets.

It is also clear that when railways and the steel industry are taken over by government, that government is deprived of the immense tax potentials and the lost taxes must be passed on to the people with incomes which eventually become entirely levelled off and low.

Those taxes must be paid by the people, either in the form of income taxes or on the railway tickets and on the steel or whatever else it may be that they buy.

And that means that a 45 per cent income tax on low incomes will rise to 50 and then to 60 per cent.

The coal industry in Britain arrived last year at the point where coal miners refused to increase production by working overtime because the whole of their overtime money was taken immediately by the government in the form of taxes.

Rationing has been lifted on clothing, and some other commodities in Britain, but the taxes imposed by the government are so high on these articles that few can afford to buy them and rationing still exists in real fact.

Moreover the British government, in order to hold down artificially the cost of living at home, has artificially pegged the British pound at a value of something over four dollars when its real value in the world market is a little above two dollars.

But this method of trying to control economics backfires for it makes British export goods expensive and, regardless of production, restricts export trade and its profits by making British goods abnormally expensive, so that no matter how much Britain produces British export goods are still handicapped.

* * *

Russia Is Example.

YOU CANNOT have it both ways. You cannot get everything for free without the total bankruptcy of government and ruin of a nation.

Somebody has to bear the burden of taxes and the more a government spends, the more industry and business is taken over by government, the more the taxpayer must pay and eventually the whole of the burden must be borne by the small income group because there isn't any other.

Soviet Russia began with the principle of the Pyramid club state and after thirty years it has one of the lowest living standards in the world, with the highest taxes and, in this process, it has reduced the Russian people to a universal level of serfdom unknown even under the czar and unknown today anywhere else in the world save in the satellite countries tied by military force to Russia.

It is just possible that if we wait another five years before plunging into the same abyss ourselves, Britain will give us the answer—that both socialism and communism are essentially reactionary and back-sliding doctrines and not liberal or progressive at all.

We may find that Jefferson with his doctrine of the least government being the best government was right.

It is ironical that on the same date that Cripps announced to the world that socialism in England was a disastrous failure, the secretary of agriculture of the United States announced an administration plan for fantastic new subsidies for agriculture, the very doctrine which Cripps told the English people was one of the primary causes not only for high taxes but for an actual increase in the price of food.

Probably in all the history of the U. S. there has never been a more fantastic ill informed or misguided administration than that of High Tax Harry.

THE MISSING link has been found and now the scientists are all confused. The fellow's name is enough to confuse anybody. It's "Australopithecus" and his remains were unearthed in a lime cave near Johannesburg, South Africa.

Austry, as we shall call him for short, seems to have had a skull somewhere between the biggest-brained apes and the smallest-brained humans. And the scientists can't decide whether he was nearer man or monkey.

But they've got one strong clue. His teeth followed the human pattern "without the customary gap found next to the incisor in all gorillas and chimpanzees." This, of course, could also be used to prove that Austry just had a good dentist.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Exception to Army's Doctor Shortage

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — There is a definite doctor shortage in the Army-Navy, though apparently not under some circumstances. Certain phases of the situation were illustrated by a telephone call received by Col. James V. Cole, commanding officer of Ft. Myer, Va., shortly before James Forrestal resigned as secretary of defense. Forrestal himself was on the telephone and asked Colonel Cole to send a doctor. "There's been an accident," he explained. A call from such an important personage as the secretary of defense brought not one doctor but two. Colonel Cole summoned Col. William L. Thompson, chief surgeon of Ft. Myer, together with Capt. Allen Fuller, medical officer of the day.

PEARSON

And they both hurried across the Potomac river to the Forrestal home where they found General and Mrs. Eisenhower with Secretary and Mrs. Forrestal.

Petite Mrs. Eisenhower had tripped and injured her ankle. Colonel Thompson's examination revealed a very slight sprain and he applied an ace bandage.

While the ankle was being bandaged, Ike and his companions talked about the doctor shortage in the armed services and what could be done to relieve it.

But when the ankle was bandaged, Mrs. Eisenhower found she could not put on her high-heeled evening slipper. This problem called for an immediate huddle on tactics. Demure Mrs. Ike was quite firm on the point that she was not going to return to the Statler hotel and brave the crowd in the lobby attired in bedroom slippers, or even in one slipper.

Finally the problem was solved by Colonel Thompson removing the bandage, thereby enabling Mrs. Ike to put on her evening slipper. Then the two Army doctors accompanied General and Mrs. Eisenhower back to the Statler, proceeded through the no-man's land of the lobby to the Eisenhower suite. There the doctors reapplied the bandage to Mrs. Ike's ankle.

It was not learned whether any decision was reached during the evening on the best methods to be used in securing more doctors for the Army.

Only Guarantee For Peace.

MANY signs on the diplomatic front indicate that the USA is gradually winning the cold war. Here are some of them: Russia is angling to lift the Berlin blockade . . . The Italian Communist party in Italy has lost 600,000 members . . . There's increasing unrest in Roumania, Poland, Bulgaria, Czecholovakia . . . Iron Curtain countries are itching to trade with the USA . . . The signing of the North Atlantic Pact has made a profound impression in Moscow.

All this has brought a subtle, carefully aimed drive from Moscow for cold-war peace concessions.

Whether to make these concessions is about the most important question now facing the state department. It may even be the most important question facing the nation.

If the Soviet gets a rest from the cold war, if trade concessions are now given which permit the strengthening of Soviet industry—expecially war industry—it will probably be only a temporary breather. After a rest, the Politburo will go back to cutthroat tactics again, and the western world will have lost its position of vantage.

On the other hand, the only sure guarantee of permanent peace with Russia is friendship with the Russian people. As long as the Kremlin has the power to declare war overnight, with no Congress, no press, no public opinion, no churches to act as brake or veto, then war remains an ever-present danger. If, on the other hand, the Russian people are friendly to the United States, declaring war becomes difficult.

So far the state department, except for the Voice of America, has made little effort to penetrate the Iron Curtain. Exhibiting a Sears, Roebuck catalogue in Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia not long ago made the local populace hungry to buy American goods.

This and other incidents merely illustrate the fact that we haven't even begun to scratch the surface as far as friendship propaganda is concerned.

But the big concession we should get from the Russians—while they are in a trading mood—is the right of cultural contact behind the Iron Curtain. While we are winning, there is no use selling out for a few cheap trade concessions.

We might as well hold out for the only thing which will permanently prevent war—contact between the Russian and American peoples.

Tobin's Strike Failed.

SECRETARY of Labor Tobin is probably the first secretary of labor ever to be embarrassed because a strike failed to come off.

Last January the handsome gentleman from Boston urged both houses of Congress to exempt stevedores from the wage-hour act.

Unless this special exemption was given, Tobin warned, New York labor boss Joe Ryan would tie up the water front with a strike in March in protest against the wage-hour bill.

Despite Tobin's warning, the Senate labor committee has not acted on the bill. Furthermore, March is now past, and Joe Ryan has called no strike.

Secretary Tobin is a bit embarrassed when the bill is mentioned.

Note—Real reason Ryan wants exemption of stevedores from wage-hour act is so water-front work won't have to be spread around among all stevedores, but can be dished out by Ryan to his favorites. Why Secretary Tobin has teamed up with Ryan on this remains a mystery.

Video Looks to Future

By INEZ ROBB

NEW YORK—What to do with old razor blades has never yet been solved to the general satisfaction of the American public. What to do with old television tubes, when they will no longer produce Milton Berle, is going to be a pure pleasure. Thar's money in them thar tubes and the neighborhood junkman and the kids will be fighting for possession. The glass used in television tubes is 30 per cent lead, a commodity which costs money. Such glass, when broken up into scrap, is called "cullet" and is the manufacture of similar glass products, just as scrap iron is important to steel.

INEZ ROBB

I am indebted for all this information, including the high class word "cullet," to Stanley J. McGiveran, vice president of the Owens-Illinois Glass company of Toledo, Ohio.

McGiveran has been in New York nosing out the manufacturing needs of video, which increase in geometric ratio as householders mortgage their goods and gear, to make the down payment on such cultural uplift as wrassling in the home.

Right now it is about all the combined glass companies of America can do to keep pace with the demand for tubes for new video sets. But come 1950 the replacement problem in the matter of tubes will begin to mount with the speed of rocket missiles. McGiveran believes.

As of now, the replacement problem has been negligible. But in another year, all those sets bought in 1947, 1948 and 1949 will begin to fade in the middle of howdy-doody and there will be heck to pay until daddy hotfoots it down to the video store for a new tube.

* * *

Now You'll Understand.

FOR the next few years, the replacements are apt to cost as much as a four-rib roast of prime beef, McGiveran believes, or around $40 to $50 each. At least, that is the price of a new 10-inch cathode ray tube.

And now that manufacturers are tooling up for larger tubes, the price is not apt to drop at least for a few more years. McGiveran doubts if television prices drop much before another two years.

McGiveran said his company has found television tubes more difficult to produce than any other item in the history of this old glass company.

The face of the tube must be of optical quality glass, and it must be perfect. The tiniest imperfection in the glass shows up.

The glass bulb, over which McGiveran slaves on red hot furnaces, is a three-part jigger that looks like a long-necked funnel. Into the long neck goes television's secret weapon or "the gimmick." This is the electrical reproduction apparatus also known as "the gun."

The second part of the tube is the funnel along which the image spreads out until it hits the face, or third part, of the tube.

The average cathode ray tube is good for 2,000 hours of roller derbies, grunt-and-groan matches, westerns starring William S. Hart, even more ancient movies featuring passion's plaything, Miss Theda Bara, Gorgeous George and, of course, Milton Berle.

At the end of this period of punishment, the tube is apt to collapse of spontaneous senile exhaustion, McGiveran said. He estimates this as a two-year stint at the rate the average video fan now burns up his set.

The video industry in general, McGiveran said, believes there will be 8,102,160 television sets in use by 1953, or in less than five years.

By that year, the glass companies will be straining every piece of cullet in their possession to manufacture 10,500,000 bulbs.

And if some bulbs are dim — well, maybe it'll just be the programs.

About Household Slavery

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHEN I was a youngster and mother made us kids help with the dishes and housework, these "chores" were considered a Painful Duty, something that just had to be done whether we liked it or not.

Of course we didn't like it but sometimes we were rewarded for being dutiful. We were allowed to go on a picnic or we were promised a new dress or we were privileged to accompany Mom to the city on a shopping tour during the course of which there might be the time and wherewithal of a ten cent soda.

I presume things are very much the same today. In most families the youngsters are required to perform certain duties and sometimes (perhaps more often than fifty years ago) they are recompensed by some special reward.

But what I'm thinking about today is this. Why does an adult housekeeper—a wife and mother—consider or try to consider her household chores a Pleasure instead of a Duty?

Certainly not all of them do, but put the question to them and I'll wager that everyone who regards herself as a Good Wife will answer—"I just love to cook and sew and keep the house clean because it makes my Bill and the children so happy. The glow of pleasure on their happy faces and their gratitude are reward enough for me!"

Who's kidding whom?

Those happy faces would glow just as brightly, maybe more so, if the banana cream pie came from the corner bakery and Susie's new dress came from the store. And likely as not Mama's own happiness comes from a gratified sense of martyrdom, which is distinctly unhealthy and before very long will turn into a chronic case of boredom, "nerves," or something worse.

Instead of trying to label housekeeping a Pleasure and a glorious career, ennobling and sanctifying the dear little woman who sacrifices herself on the alter of domesticity, why not call it by its right name—work?

Instead of making it an end in itself, why not regard it as a nuisance which must be put up with, and then look elsewhere for the elements of life which do truly improve the mind, strengthen character and ennoble the spirit?

A woman need not be a slave to the housekeeping to the extend that she once was. There are too many modern conveniences to simplify her tasks and make them easy. She has plenty of time for outside interests—but I don't mean afternoon movies and bridge.

If she has or cultivates an outward looking spirit, a housewife can become a very potent force for civic betterment and culture.

Thousands of women have become leaders in their communities and not by neglecting their homes either. They have simply put housework in its place. They recognize it as a necessary duty and have not glorified it as the supreme achievement of womanhood.

Dave Boone Says:

WELL, I see where the Supreme Court has made another ruling on the divorce racket. This is its April ruling, so don't do anything about yours until you see what it decides in May and June.

* * *

This time, by one of those 5-to-4 decisions, the high court ruled a quickie divorce in one state can be challenged and set aside if the defendant got to notice within the divorce state or was not represented at the hearing. It had previously ruled that a divorce might be legal through publication of a notice in a state other than the divorce state. A lot of folks who thought they had been unhitched are left up in the air again as to their marital status.

* * *

It seems strange that the highest court in the land can't issue some decision that will straighten out the divorce question for more than a couple of week-ends.

* * *

9nd those 5-to-4 decisions are to be deplored. If the top court in America can't agree on the law, how can anybody else be expected to? Thank goodness for the return of the baseball season, anyhow. Maybe the umpires are in the wrong business.

Pensioning Alcoholics.

An indication of the increasing realism with which alcoholism is being treated is the announcement by the Consolidated Edison Co. of New York that for five years it has been retiring victims of this ailment on pensions.

The retirement pay has been commensurate with pay and years of service and has been given on the same basis as to persons afflicted with tuberculosis, failing eyesight or other incapacitating ailments.

Dr. John Jay Wittmer, medical supervisor for the company, said, "We consider chronic, irretrievable alcoholism as a disabling condition because we feel that the basis for alcoholism is due to a definite pathological condition."

A difference is drawn, he said, between those who occasionally drink to excess and the true alcoholic.—Akron Beacon Journal.

Vacation Plans

—By ANNE CAMPBELL

Shall we take a cruise,
Or step into a car,
And gypsy to the northland,
Or maybe twice as far?

Shall we take a train
And stop at pleasant scenes?
Shall we cruise to Europe,
And gaze on kings and queens?

Shall we tour our own state,
Or take a flyer east?
Shall we be extravagant,
Or go where we'll spend least?

I have only one wish!
Linger by my side,
If the trip's a short one,
Or if the way is wide.

I'll be mighty happy
When we start to pack,
Happy to be going,
Gladder to come back!

$1,000 Action, Injunction Plea Names Ashland Justice

Father Files Petition for Minor Son

Alleges Jurisdiction Lacking In Handling

By VIRGINIA LEED
N-J State Correspondent

ASHLAND — Action for $1,000 and an injunction have been filed in Ashland county common pleas court against Miss Betty G. Bennighof, Montgomery township justice of the peace by Clark G. Austen in behalf of his son, Stanley Austen, a minor.

The petition alleged Justice Bennighof acted without jurisdiction in charging young Austen with contributing to the delinquency of minors and seeks to restrain the justice from arresting him for failure to deposit $100 to guarantee good behavior.

The case concerns Austen's arrest in January after two minors had allegedly consumed two bottles of beer in the car Austen was driving but from which he states he was absent at the time.

The petition charges the defendant acted without jurisdiction over him, that all her acts were performed in total disregard of the plaintiff's rights and for the purpose of enriching herself by reason of the costs derived therefrom.

Austen had pleaded not guilty before Justice Bennighof and was found guilty and fined. To avoid confinement in jail after two days of confinement he paid the justice $25, he avers. The plaintiff claims he suffered embarrassment, mental suffering and damages through confinement in jail and by loss of reputation and standing in the community.

Retired Farmer, 94, Recalls 3-Saloon Era

Mifflin Started As Petersburg

By BILL HERRING
News-Journal State Editor

MIFFLIN — "This place was known as Petersburg long before I came here 70 years ago," was the way Aaron Cole, 93, commented after being reminded that Plymouth was platted as Paris, O., back in 1825.

The Pennsylvania native farmed on the share in this community until his retirement 25 years ago. Cole will observe his 94th birthday on Decoration Day.

"Petersburg was settled in 1814 and the name change occurred around 1846, I'm told," Cole explained. "Reference to Petersburg nowadays results in folks adding to it—it becomes St. Petersburg, like the Florida place—but that's all wrong."

The lake near here, which Mansfielders recall as Mifflin Lake, was known at Petersburg Lake, and quite a picnic spot to older residents.

"This place has changed very little during the years," Cole said. "When it was Petersburg Charlie Engel had the postoffice in his store. It was a rugged place, as we had three saloons here at one time. Fights were a dime-a-dozen then."

Cole's ailing wife, Mary, is 88 and they were the parents of seven children with five still surviving. His only living son is Rolla, who resides near Widowville. Four daughters still living are Miss Bell M. Cole, chief operator of the Mifflin-Widowville Telephone company, Mrs. Cleo Myers of Mansfield, Mrs. Goldie Harlan of near Pavonia and Mrs. Esther Van Tilburg of Ashland.

"Glad to see you smoke a pipe —it's my favorite, too. I remember when I had to light my mother's pipe as a child and she'd say: 'Sonny, if you never do anything worse you'll be a good boy.' The tobacco nowadays isn't as good as I used to get," Cole complained.

MAN, 93, KEEPS COAL BURNER GLOWING—Aaron Cole, 93, retired farmer living in Mifflin, sits near the coal burner in his home. Despite his advanced years Cole fires and maintains a constant blaze in the burner. Holding his pipe in one hand the other hand shows a modern touch—a lighter.

Cole always has gardened each spring until this year. Last year on his small plot he raised 14 bushels of potatoes, but required help in getting them to the basement storage place. Potato-raising is his hobby and he's quite proud of the yield he dug each year.

"Although I was born on Memorial day I never served in the Army," Cole said. "My brother John was killed in the Civil War, but another brother, Reuben, went through it without a scratch. My sons were married farmers, so escaped the two World Wars."

Cole attended the old Wallace school in Richland county, which now is known as the Pleasant Hill school. His lengthy work on Ohio farms never found him but an hour and a half's drive from Mifflin.

Hollander Studying Huron Farm Methods

Says Dutch Crop Yield High

By GEORGE WOLFE
N.-J. State Correspondent.

WILLARD — One of the three Netherlanders who are studying Ohio farming methods already is working in Huron county. He is Agie L. Heeres, 26, from the northeastern part of The Netherlands about 20 miles north of Groningen, and is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Albright and their sons, Ralph and Allen.

Because of the fertility of the Dutch soil and the intensity with which Netherlanders farm, Heeres believes the yield there is greater than here. For example, their average yield from an acre of oats is 130 bushels, as against our average of 50 bushels.

Heeres arrived in Willard last week, having come to the United States with 32 other Dutch farmers, two of these also being sent to Ohio farms in Hancock and Wayne counties. The three finish their Ohio work on July 31 and then go to Missouri as another Dutch farming trio changes places with them.

* * *

C. M. Ferguson, director of the agricultural extension service at Ohio State university, explained the Netherlanders came here under arrangements made with The Netherlands and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Ferguson said the Netherlanders are each allowed approximately $65 per month and will be supported mainly by the farmers with whom they reside.

Arrangements for his coming to Huron county were made by John Wells, county extension agent.

Each Hollander will keep a diary of his experiences, observations and impressions for their co-workers in The Netherlands. At other times, they are "just farmers."

* * *

Heeres lives on a 140-acre farm with his father and two sisters. In Huron county he divides his time between two farms—those of Fred and Ralph Albright, about six miles north of here on Route 61. He speaks a little English and expressed amazement at the modern equipment used here.

He was especially interested in a tractor which has a four-gang plow instead of the usual two-gang plow attachment. He says, however, Dutch farmers use the usual mechanical equipment but all are old types. Heeres says water in The Netherlands is pumped off the land by windmills and very few Diesel motors into canals which lead into the ocean. With the exception of corn (their season is too short for that) their products are much the same as ours.

The Dutch raise wheat, oats, hay, sugar beets and flax.

He states he has been requested by his government to teach others, upon his return, American farming methods as farm labor is very short overseas since the majority of men have turned to factory work during and since the war.

Dollars Pay Dividends to Lexington Church Women

By EVELYN SHEER

LEXINGTON — The most a dollar can be changed into is 100 shiny copper pennies but 12 women of the Congregational church here did far better than this.

Last November they were each given one dollar to invest and were to return this along with any profit made at the end of a six-month period. On April 20, at the home of Mrs. Richard Heston, a total of $67.05 was turned in.

The acquisition of the 'interest' provides amusing stories. One member charged her husband 10 cents for each shirt ironed. Handerkerchiefs, with tatted and crocheted edges, were good selling items. Frilly tea aprons were made and homemade bread sold very well.

The articles sold are too numerous for mention but the dividends will aid in repairing the badly cracked plaster on the front wall of the church.

About a year ago the Young Peoples class purchased two beautiful paintings. These were hung on the front . . . and were certain to draw immediate attention upon entering the church auditorium. Shortly after their hanging unsightly cracks appeared in the wall, distracting from the beauty of the paintings.

The women of the church then devised the plan whereby money was acquired to repair the plaster.

After the project money was turned in the members enjoyed an interesting talk by Mrs. Follin, a former missionary.

Morrow's Junior Fair Unit Elects

MT. GILEAD — Beverly Worster of Edison was elected president of the Morrow county Junior Fair Board at last week's meeting of the board. Other officers for the coming year are Wilbur Gregory of Cardington, vice president, and Fannie Weber of Marengo, secretary-treasurer.

Membership on the board is limited to boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 21 who have exhibited at the fair. Plans for the 1949 fair were discussed and additions to the premium lists were made.

Bellville Lists Three Institutes

BELLVILLE — The first of three weekly Sunday evening Community Institute meetings will be held at 8 p. m. today in the Methodist church here. School Superintendent Rider will be speaker.

On May 1 former Senator George Shurtz will address the group in the high school auditorium. The Columbia Singers, 12 Negro gospel singers, will participate.

The final one, on May 8, will be held in the Christian church with Rev. Moninger, of Lexington, as speaker. These union services are being sponsored by the ministerial association.

Gilead Hires Architects For School

New Grade Building Likely Next Spring

MT. GILEAD — The firm of McLaughlin and Keil of Lima has been hired as the new architects for the proposed new Mt. Gilead grade school building it was announced last week. Howard Manor of Bellefontaine resigned last week as architect.

O. H. Faraar, Mt. Gilead superintendent of schools, indicated the local school board may advertise for bids on the new building early next year. If bids are favorable building might begin next spring he said.

Voters in the school district passed a $300,000 bond issue for the building at the November 1947 election.

Faraar stated the new firm would draw up complete new plans for the building but it would contain nearly the same features as were included in the old plans. He stafed the board hopes to have 14 grade class rooms, a gymnasium, kindergarten, and a cafeteria in the new building. Plans for the old building called for 12 class rooms and a gymnasium seating 1,200.

The New Washington youth was indicted by a Crawford county grand jury for having committed assault and battery against William A. Gearhart, 50, New Washington tavern owner.

Humorist Nasby Once Publisher In Plymouth

By MAY FLEMING
N-J State Correspondent

PLYMOUTH — A newspaper called the Journal was started here in 1851. Two years later the name was changed to the Advertiser, under which title it has been published for 96 years.

James S. Robinson and David R. Locke were the first publishers and each later attained both state and national fame. Robinson became colonel of the 82nd Ohio Infantry in the Civil War and won a general's star before its close. He also was a member of congress and secretary of the state of Ohio.

D. R. Locke won fame as a writer, under the non de plume of Petroleum V. Nasby. He was an American humorist, born in Vestal, Broome county, N. Y., on Sept. 20, 1833. After being connected with newspapers in Mansfield and Findlay, he took charge of the Toledo Blade in 1865 and at once became popular as a humorous writer and later as a lecturer.

Locke began his "Nasby" letters in 1860 and continued them throughout the war. They were very amusing and were mainly hits at political' characters and situations, written in a peculiar dialect. He based some of his articles on "Confedrit x roads" (which are in the state of Kentucky). Abraham Lincoln read Locke's writings with much pleasure.

He married Miss Martha Bodine in Plymouth and whose parents came from Oswego, N. Y. They had three sons, Edward, Robert and Charles. He died in Toledo on Feb. 15, 1888.

Their successor on the Advertiser, A. H. Balsley, later achieved fame as a publisher in Pittsburgh, Pa. J. M. and J. Frank Beelman then conducted the Advertiser until 1876, when J. Frank Beelman purchased it and successfully conducted the Advertiser until 1890 when the Lutherans secured his services as manager of their church paper and publishing house in Cincinnati.

George W. Reed then published the Advertiser until September of 1917, the time of his death.

A stock company then was formed by local business men who purchased the Advertiser in 1918 with O. A. White as editor. He continued in that capacity until June of 1922 when the paper was sold to Dr. Frank Stackhouse, of Danville, Ind., who conducted the business for three months.

Dr. Stackhouse sold it in 1923 to Will and Courtland Davis, brothers of Tiro, who published it a year and then sold it to the Davis Printing company of Norwalk. They in turn sold it in 1925 to Thomas Fowler who left in October of the same year.

For the past 24 years the paper has been edited and managed by P. W. Thomas, who still conducts the Advertiser as a dependable weekly newspaper.

Willard Sets Theme Song For Jubilee

WILLARD — "Sentimental Journey" is the theme song which has been selected by the Planning committee for the 75th Anniversary Jubilee which will be held here in June commemorating the founding of Willard.

Since the growth of Willard parallels the expansion and modernization of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad yards here, the song, featuring the tooting of locomotive whistles, ringing of bells and the chug of engines, is considered to be most appropriate.

The arrangements for the Baltimore and Ohio's part in the program were made during a recent conference here with Mr. L. W. Sagel of the Public Relations committee, B. and O, Baltimore, Md.

Bucyrians Topple 120-Foot Chimney

BUCYRUS — A 120 foot brick chimney, located on the the New York Central railroad shops and the Crawford county fairgrounds here, was demolished last week.

The structure, which was built in 1890, was demolished with 20 sticks of dynamite by its owner, Lewis Battefeld, Bucyrus, who feared that children playing around it might be injured by falling bricks.

Battefeld said there were 190,000 bricks in the stack, enough to build seven five-room homes. He plans to sell the bricks. The chimney was all that remained of the old Terra-Cotta brick works, which manufactured hard-glazed clay products used for roofing. The firm ceased operations many years ago.

Fiedler-Schwab Nuptials

St. John's Church Scene of Rite

IN A LOVELY GOWN of antique ivory silk marquisette Miss Margaret Elizabeth Fiedler became the bride of Richard B. Schwab. The gown, worn by the bride's sister at her wedding, was made with a peasant type high round neckline and short puffed sleeves.

The marquisette was fashioned over a deep rich ivory tone of Skinners' satin and worn over a stiff crinoline skirt. A wide cumberbund and back bow bustle extended in a long sash effect. A long wide train fell from the extremely full skirt. Nylon mitts of matching tone were worn by the bride.

The veil, which had also been worn by her sister, was finger tip length of French silk illusion. It was held in place with a cluster of French waxed orange blossoms.

Miss Fiedler and Mr. Schwab exchanged nuptial vows in St. John's Evangelical Reformed church Saturday at 3:45 o'clock. The Rev. John C. Melchert officiated for the double ring open church ceremony before an altar decorated with gold altar vases filled with white snapdragons. The large beauty baskets held white gladioli, snapdragons and lillies. Wide satin ribbon marked the pews. At each bow was an arrangement of matching flowers. Two seven branch candelabra lighted the scene.

Miss Fiedler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Fiedler, 385 Overlook road, and Mr. Schwab is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde V. Schwab, 151 Gibson avenue.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father, carried an arrangement of white roses, sweetpeas and garlands of stephanotis. An insert corsage of a large white Cattelya orchid centered the bouquet.

Mrs. Frank W. Mengert, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Phyllis Schwab, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Thomas Scott, a close friend of the couple. Little Miss Patty Ann Mengert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Mengert, 306 Taylor road, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

The attendants were attired in like styled gowns of taffeta. They were fashioned with a square front neckline and a collar effect. The skirts were pleated into a bouffant style in the front and a circular effect in the back. Short gauntlets completed their ensembles. Mrs. Mengert wore blue and the bridesmaids wore jonquil yellow. Leaf bands with side flower arrangements were worn in their hair.

Miss Fiedler chose a gown of bluet blue taffeta, in a duplicate style of the other attendants, for her eight year old niece.

Yellow carnations in a semi-colonial arrangement with garlands of Talisman roses were carried by the attendants. The maid of honor's and the flower girl's bouquets were tied with yellow ribbons while the bridesmaids had blue satin ribbons.

Mrs. Fiedler chose an aqua dress with pink and navy accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Schwab was attired in an aqua dress with black and pink accessories. Both mothers had pink rosebud corsages.

Carl E. Tracey of Zanesville, Ohio, a close friend of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Guests were escorted to their pews by Frank W. Mengert, brother-in-law of the bride, and Thomas H. Scott, friend of the bridegroom.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception for one hundred guests was held at the Women's club. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake surrounded with a garland of white sweetpeas intermingled with smilax. Arrangements of white sweetpeas were placed throughout the room. Presiding at the table were Mrs. Fred Zumsteg and Mrs. Robert Walter, sorority sisters of the bride.

For traveling through the southern states, Mrs. Schwab wore a beige suit with an emerald green topper and toast accessories. The white orchid from her bridal bouquet completed the ensemble.

After the first of May the young couple will be at home at 135½ West First street.

Mrs. Schwab, a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, is an active member of Zeta Rho chapter, Delta Theta Tau sorority. She is employed as a secretary in the advertising department of the Westinghouse Electric corporation.

Mr. Schwab also graduated from Mansfield Senior high school. He served forty months in the Army Air Corps, part of which time was spent in the European theater. He is employed in the composing room of the Mansfield News-Journal.

Out-of-town guests present at the wedding were from Alymer, West Ontario, Canada; Huntington, West Virginia; Ashland, Huron, Cleveland, Elyria, Toledo, Camp Le Jeune, North Carolina, and Columbus.

Friday evening sixteen friends were entertained at the home of the bride's parents at a rehearsal party. Out-of-town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Paul O. Fiedler, of Huntington, Ind., aunt and uncle of the bride.

The evening was spent socially with a buffet lunch being served at a late hour. Yellow daffodils centered the table. Lighted yellow tapers in crystal holders had small bud vases filled with daffodils between them.

Mrs. Edna Bullock, 77 Marion avenue, is announcing the engagement of her daughter, Nancy Louise, to David Stanley Schiller, son of Dr. and Mrs. Stanley C. Schiller, 77 Parkwood boulevard. No date has been chosen by the couple for the nuptials. Miss Bullock is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and attended Ohio State University. While at the university Miss Bullock became an active member of the Newman club. She is now employed in the office of the M. O'Neil company. Mr. Schiller, also a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Kenyon college. He is now attending the graduate school at Notre Dame. While a student at Kenyon college, Mr. Schiller became affiliated with Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

ONE OF THE PRETTIEST weddings of the post-Easter season was that solemnized yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, uniting in marriage Miss Eileen Clara Tahsler of this city and Joseph James Bauderer of St. Paul, Minn.

A beautifully decorated altar in the St. Luke's Lutheran church was the scene of the single ring open church service. Many relatives and friends were in attendance. Rev. Herbert S. Garnes officiated and Mrs. Fred H. Cahall played the program of nuptial music. Soloist was L. M. Girton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of pure white frosted starched chiffon with a design of roses in velvet throughout the material. Her wedding frock was made with tiny revers turned back at the neckline, giving a deep V-line, around which were very full inch ruffles extending around the back of the neck. Little ruffles also edged the cap sleeves. The bodice was cut to a low line and the very full skirt was trimmed with three deep ruffles at the yoke, making the skirt extend around the hips.

She also wore short mits in white nylon lace with ruffled cuffs. Her lovely fingertip length veil, which had been worn by her sister, Mrs. Robert Lynch at her recent nuptial service, was held in place by a bonnet of imported Venice lace with silk illusion veil.

Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, belonging to her maternal grandmother. She carried a white Bible which was topped by a white orchid.

Viewre Club Hears Program On 'Women In Horticulture'

MRS. ARQUETTE RUST JR. was hostess to members of the Viewre club Friday evening at a dinner meeting held at her home, 120 Stewart avenue. The centerpiece for the table was of pastel spring flower and candles in silver holders.

Mrs. Rust, president of the organization, conducted the business session. Communications from friends in Finland were read by Miss Vera Smythe. The Viewre club has been writing to a welfare group in Finland and exchanging material with them.

The program of the evening was given by Mrs. Sherman Wentz, who spoke on "Women in Horticulture."

"The best seeds," said Mrs. Wentz, "come from the United States and not from Europe as we used to think."

Mrs. Wentz spoke of such famous women in this field as Elizabeth Bodger, seed authority, who grows wonderful and novel flowers. She is also a noted hybridrist.

Lester Rountree started to garden in England at an early age. She is now in the seed business and author of magazine articles. Helen Field Fisher conducts a radio garden and is known as the "flower lady."

A woman noted for growing Alpine plants and one of the early rock gardeners is Louise Beebe Wilder. Mrs. Frances King, landscape gardener, is the dean of home gardeners and one of the founders of the garden clubs.

Mrs. Hugh Rust gave a short talk on "Spring Pickups." Her talk listed both practical and humorous ideas.

Mrs. G. W. Weller, Millsboro road, will be hostess on May 20.

Helen Venskus, Solo Flier, Holds Commercial License at Airport

By JOAN SCHWEITZ

HELEN VENSKUS is the only woman in the Mansfield area who possesses a commercial single and multi-engine flyers license. She is employed at the Civil Aeronautics Administration airways communication station at Municipal airport.

Her job consists of taking weather observations, contacting aircraft and informing them of weather conditions. Her friend, Ann Heisler, of Willard, owns a BT13 airplane and Miss Venskus frequently flies with her. More often, however, she rents a plane at the airport and takes her jaunts around the country in this fashion.

Her commercial license enables her to take passengers up if she so desires. She has 450 flying hours to her credit, which is a lot of hours! She has never had an accident or forced landing in all this time.

Miss Venskus's interest in flying stems from her desire, back in 1943, to join the WASPs' the women's air corps, which she joined in 1944. In preparation for joining the WASPs' she soloed after only eight hours flying time. She confesses that she was terribly ill after this flight and couldn't look at a plane for three days.

A member of the Ninety Niners, a women's flying organization, she tries to get to as many of their meetings as possible. Meetings are held in different cities and the next one is in Louisville, Ky. If the weather is fair, Miss Venskus will buzz down to Louisville from Mansfield in one hour and forty-five minutes.

Our woman pilot is very interested in air races and has participated in a few. She hopes she can fine a sponsor in time to race in the National Air Races which will be held in Cleveland late in the summer.

MISS HELEN VENSKUS

With thirty more flying hours Miss Venskus can try for an instructor's license which is next to the highest license issued, the highest license issued, the highest being air transport. There are two things that surprise her about the airport in Mansfield. First, there is an unusual amount of interest in flying and second it is almost all centered in men pilots. She wonders why more women don't fly here.

We asked her how the other pilots she has met feel about women pilots. She answered frankly that while serving in the WASPs' she found a great deal of prejudice against women pilots, (much the same sort of thing, we deduce, as the current prejudice against women drivers) but she insists that once a woman proves her ability as a pilot, she is almost always accepted on equal status by men pilots.

Annual Dinner Held By Bible Federation

THE ANNUAL DINNER of the Federated Bible Study clubs was held Friday evening in the parlors of the First Methodist church with 140 in attendance. Mrs. H. B. Scoles, former president, gave the invocation.

A business session was in charge of the president, Mrs. Arthur Grau at which time Mrs. Cleo Rhine and Mrs. J. D. Wilcox, secretary and treasurer, respectively, gave their annual reports.

Two new amendments were added to the by-laws. The first is that all officers elected in April assume their duties in September, beginning of the Bible club year. The second is that the Federation president receive a yearly program from each club.

The report of the nominating committee was submitted by the chairman, Mrs. R. S. Bemiller. Officers for the 1948-49 season are as follows: president, Mrs. C. O. Hall; Mrs. Ervin Remy, first vice president; Mrs. Joseph Statler, second vice president; Mrs. Cleo Rhine, secretary; Mrs. Robert K. Miller, assistant secretary; Mrs. Ralph Peat, treasurer; Mrs. Sam Burrows, reporter.

Three new members were added to the executive board. They are Mrs. John Howard, Mrs. Willard Murphy and Mrs. Blair Donley. Mrs. Grau introduced the program chairman, Mrs. C. O. Hall.

Mrs. Jay Chubbs favored with a vocal solo, "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked", accompanied by Mrs. H. H. Clingan. Devotions were given by Mrs. F. F. Smith, who used as her subject, "God's Jewelry Box".

Guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. George Constance. Mr. and Mrs. Constance and their three children have recently returned to the United States after serving six years in the jungles of Columbia, South America. They had also spent a previous period of five years in mission work. She told of their work, hardships and joys while working with the primitive Indians in the Andes.

The program was concluded with the vocal number, "The Time for Making Songs Has Come", sung by Mrs. Chubbs. At the close of the evening the club prayer was said in unison.

The committees in charge of arrangements was composed of Mrs. Edwin Davis and Mrs. Hobart Cashell, time and place; Mrs. C. O. Hall, Mrs. Ralph Peat and Mrs. Robert K. Miller, program; Dorcas Bible club, members table decorations.

CLUB MEETS

CRESTLINE — The J. U. club met Monday evening at the home of Miss Edna Smith. Mrs. Charles Riggle of Mansfield was a guest. Bridge was played with prizes awarded to Mrs. William Veitinger and Miss Minerva Mann. Luncheon was served. The next meeting will be at the home of Miss Minerva Morton, May 16.

Lybarger Home Scene of Meet Of Garden Club

Mrs. Maurice Lybarger, 111 Sunset blvd., was hostess recently to members and guests of the Agnes Paulsen Garden club. Mrs. Robert Coe presided over the short business session. Roll call was answered by each member, who gave a short talk on an assigned subject.

The flower arrangement for the evening was made by Mrs. Charles McKinstry. She chose budding flowering quince for the background with yellow daffodils placed in front.

Mrs. Warren Lewis introduced Mrs. J. W. Geiber, who gave an interesting paper on "Love Making of Birds." She told how in the early spring the male bird chooses his domain and awaits the coming of his mate.

"Some birds," she said, "have fancy quills which they display when mating. These are usually birds which do not have the fine singing ability of others."

Mrs. Gene Hortwell presided at the luncheon table set buffet style in crystal and silver. The centerpiece was of white snapdragons flanked with tall lighted white candles.

The next session will be held at the home of Mrs. Warren Rupp, 715 Arlington avenue, May 4.

Nancy Joyce King

Nancy's favorite is Isaly's Homogenized Milk. She likes its rich, creamy flavor, a flavor that is much richer, much creamier than ordinary milk. Homogenized Milk digests more quickly and easily than ordinary milk, too—agrees with tiny tummies better. And its wholesome nourishment helps build sound, healthy bodies. Why not begin today to give your children the flavor and health advantages of scientifically improved Isaly's Homogenized Milk.

Isaly's Homogenized Milk is available from your neighborhood Isaly Milkman, at your grocer's, at Isaly Dairy Stores. Telephone 4217-6 for home delivery service.

Miss Jane Stough Changes Name to Mrs. Ray Kiraly

The Rev. Charles W. Stoneburner officiated for the double ring ceremony of Miss Jane Ann Stough and Raymond Kiraly Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the First Methodist church. The vows were spoken before an altar banked with ferns, palms and altar vases of white snapdragons and white carnations. Two seven branch candelabra lighted the scene.

Miss Stough is the daughter of Mrs. Foster Stough and the late Foster Stough, 231 Rae avenue. Mr. Kiraly is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kiraly, 63 South Linden road.

Mrs. W. L. Naas presided at the organ for the nuptial music and Mrs. John Grubb, of Mt. Vernon, cousin of the bride, was the soloist.

Miss Stough, given in marriage by her uncle, Allen Fligor of Chillicothe, wore a lovely blushing pink gown. The dress was styled with a net yoke trimmed in seed pearls and sequins. Above an accordian pleated skirt a matching trim was repeated on the colonial skirt. The long cathedral train fell from a full skirt worn over a hoop. The long tight fitting sleeves came to points over the hands. A finger tip illusion veil, worn over a bonnet of white gardenias, completed the ensemble.

The bride carried a front style bouquet of white shattered carnations, stephonatis and centered with a white orchid insert corsage.

Miss Barbara Beck of Crestline, a close friend of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a dress fashioned of deep aqua taffeta. A wide full collar edged the plunging neckline. The tight fitted waistline extended into an extremely full skirt. Miss Connie Derr, Mrs. Richard Davis and Miss Madlyn McConachie of Bellville, all friends of the couple, wore like styled gowns of light aqua taffeta. They were made with an off-the-shoulder effect. The back of the full skirts had bustles centered with red rosebuds. Bonnets matching their gowns were worn by all the attendants. Better Time roses trimmed the bonnets, and on the maid of honor's bonnet there was also arrangements of white carnations.

The little flower girl, Dorothy Fligor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Fligor of Chillicothe, Ohio, cousin of the bride, wore an orchid taffeta dress with a round neckline and full skirt.

The maid of honor carried a front style bouquet of white carnations and Better Time roses. Muffs covered with white carnations, and a heart shape arrangement of red roses centered with an aqua tinted gardenia were carried by all three bridemaids. The flower girl carried a basket of aqua and white flowers, scattering petals before the bride.

Mrs. Stough chose an aqua dress with black accessories. Mrs. Kiraly was attired in a lime green dress with pink accessories for her son's wedding. Both mothers had orchid corsages.

Wilbur Bookwalter, a close friend of Mr. Kiraly, served as best man.

Guests were escorted to their pews by Dwight Miller, Richard Thomas of Galion, and Kenneth Schelk. The ushers are all friends of the couple.

Immediately following the wedding a reception for 125 guests was held at the home of the bride. The table was centered with a five tiered wedding cake surrounded by red roses and vine. White candles in crystal holders lighted the table. Arrangements of spring flowers were used throughout the home.

Assisting with the reception were Mrs. Julie Ballant of Cleveland, aunt of the bridegroom, Mrs. Max Stickler, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Clem Beal of Bucyrus, aunt of the bride.

Leaving for her two week honeymoon in Florida, Mrs. Kiraly wore a three piece suit for traveling. Her accessories were in copper, and a white orchid completed her ensemble.

The couple will be at home at 231 Rae avenue after May 10.

Mrs. Kiraly graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and Minnick Beauty school. She is a member of Nu Phi Mu sorority. At the time of her marriage the bride was employed at Kaler's Beauty Shoppe. Mr. Kiraly, a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, is an employe of the American Electrical Products company.

Out-of-town guests present at the wedding were from Bucyrus, Akron, Cleveland, Mt. Vernon, Crestline and Bellevue, Ohio.

This is another honor to Mrs. Whiting's long list of classical achievements. Latin instructor at Senior high school for several years, Mrs. Whiting has been active in the state classical language organizations. She also holds a law degree from Western Reserve university.

Nancy Osbun, a freshman at the university this year, has been pledged to the national society. Miss Osbun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray S. Osbun, 495 Woodward avenue, is one of three students at the university maintaining a straight "A" average in her subjects.

Dorcas Circle Studies Bible

Members of Dorcas Circle Sunday school class of St. John's Evangelical and Reform church met at the home of Mrs. Frederick Griesbach, 136 Gibson avenue, Friday evening. Twelve members were in attendance.

The president, Mrs. John Bernat, opened the meeting. Miss Clara Mayer read the scripture. Roll call was answered with Bible verses. Mrs. Lewis Oblinger gave a review on the middle of the Bible, the 103rd Psalm. The members voted to give a donation to the Salvation Army.

Mrs. Oblinger won the first gift of the month, and Mrs. William Clauss was awarded the second gift. A contest, "What Do You Remember About Your Church" was conducted with the prize going to Mrs. Gerald Ferguson.

Lunch was served by the hostess at a late hour from a table decorated with yellow and green garden flowers.

A special party will be held May 6 at the home of Mrs. Bernat, Bartley avenue. The next session will be held at the home of Mrs. Clara Ritter, May 20, at 46 Wise avenue.

Disqualification Dims Harry's Usual Smile

Cleveland Loses In Overtime Game, 5 to 4

Ruling Wins for Mansfield

By RALPH POSTLEWAITE

Harry Mehock, the man in the corduroy coat, was not quite his usual merry self last evening.

Harry watched his Senior high team finish the day with 38.9 points, enough to outclass a fine field in the 1949 renewal of the Mansfield Relays, but the first disqualification in the 18-year history marred proceedings. All of which left Harry a bit unhappy.

But the usual wide grin crept through when two of his stalwarts hoisted him onto their shoulders for a short victory parade.

The Tygers of Mansfield Senior high displaced the Trojans of Cleveland Central as high point team of the meet when the Trojan coach, Russ Alexander, substituted two ineligible men for the final, and deciding, mile relay event.

Ronald Taylor and Ken Mischal, the two who spurred the Central quartet to victory in a fast 4:38.4 mile, were declared ineligible by Richard L. Kroesen, referee for the relays for the past fifteen years. Their appearance in three previous track events in the meet, the maximum number allowed one individual for entry, disqualified them for any further events.

SLICE OFF 17

And as a result, Cleveland Central saw the seventeen points amassed by the pair sliced from a final total of forty-one points, to leave the Trojans with an official total of no more than 24 points, good only for a third place in the meet standings.

"It's not the way I'd like to have won the meet," said Harry Mehock, Tyger mentor, following the long drawn out discussion that climaxed the relays finale. A goodly number of Senior high followers endured the chill of the late evening for fully an hour following the running of the mile relay to hear the final official announcement.

And they were on hand to witness the departure of Mehock from the field, triumphantly borne aloft on the shoulders of Harry Osbun and Ken Snider, his arms full of the yard-high rotating trophy presented to the winning team.

Following behind, other members of the Tyger squad cradled three resplendent 24-inch trophies, spoils for the winning coach, the winning shuttle relay team and the permanent winners trophy.

Harry praised the boys who wore the Mansfield colors on the field. "They're one of the best, perhaps the best, balanced team that I've had here at the high school. Jenkins, Tucker and Meister especially did some fine work out there today."

When asked if the dispute following the mile relay would have any effect on the future relations between any of the the participating schools with the relays, Harry very emphatically replied, "no."

NO ANIMOSITY

"There is most definitely no animosity on the part of the Central coach, Russ Alexander. He assured me that he would be back next year. It was a mistake, and he admitted as much. One of those unfortunate things that can happen when a real competitor is all out to win."

And take nothing away from Russ Alexander. He is a competitor. In his first year of coaching at Cleveland Central, in 1947, Russ piloted his boys to the state championship.

Against intermittent afternoon showers that drove the spectators in and out of cover repeatedly, and a crowded infield that threatened to overflow the track, the meet progressed in good time. It is regrettable that the '49 edition of this nationally famous scholastic carnival should have ended on a discordant note.

Mehock, former Illinois middle distance star, has coached Senior high track teams for 22 years. Yesterday's Relays title, the sixth in 18 years, brought his over-all championship total to 20. His 1945 crew won the state championship.

RECORD SMASHER—Most celebrated athlete of the meet was Gene Strathman of Euclid Brush who set a new discus record at 162 feet and then broke it himself with a heave of 173 feet ten inches. His team failed to place as he scored its only points. (News-Journal Staff Photo.)

Some Odds and Ends On Mansfield Relays

By CHARLEY STINE

Senior high's winning of the 18th Mansfield Relays yesterday brought to a close a week in which the Tygers got off and running to what promises to be the best spring sports season it has ever had. . . . Three other teams opened their seasons with convincing victories earlier in the week. . . . The tennis team surprised with a 5-to-2 win Tuesday then Mike Byelene power-packed baseball team beat previously undefeated Barberton, 19-5, Wednesday. . . . Yesterday morning the Tyger golf team took Norwalk into hand with little trouble. . . . so far Senior high athletes have been out nine times this spring and the only time they didn't win was in the Springfield Relays when they came in 2½ points behind in second place.

Two and possibly three of the teams will rate strong contenders when state tournament time rolls around. . . . The baseball team rates a fine chance if and when Lou Gregorio rounds into form and a second strong starting pitcher is found for a running-mate. . . . the golf outfit also has possibilities since a half-dozen of the boys have a great deal of experience. . . . the tennis team lacks experience. . . . when May 28 rolls around Mansfield will be a definite favorite in the state track meet.

Winning of the country's biggest high school track carnival gives them top ranking, yet we are sure the team did not reach its highest potential. . . . it won despite the fact that its leading competitors were "off".

A. C. Jenkins got off to a very bad start in the 120-high hurdles and came from sixth at about the second hurdle to a very close second. . . . he should be able to do better than that and he proved it in the shuttle relay when he started with about a yard lead and won by a full 15 yards. . . . he proved that he is the best low hurdles man in the state by winning that event with several yards to spare. . . . Jim Meister jumped on 11'3" although he has done 11'9" earlier in the year and his partner, Don Cline was stopped at 11 feet although a year ago he went 12. . . . Tommy Tucker, although admittedly running against good men, may have been bothered by lack of practice due to a cut on his shin several weeks ago.... high jumper Willie Fowler was also a victim of circumstance. . . . he was stopped at 5'11" when he tried two jumps at that heighth in a driving rain. . . . the second time he was over in good shape but a drop of cold water hit him on the neck and he kicked the bar off. . . . after waiting till the end of the downpour, he missed once and was out.

An unscheduled event of the day was a "moving contest" staged by sports writers. . . . the race was started by a sudden downpour that sent all from the infield press row to Augie Morningstar's office in the high school. . . . Fritz Howell won by a typewriter over three Cleveland scribes. . . the News-Journal's Fred Tharp finished in the rear, although to keep from jeopardizing ourself, we must admit he was carrying added avoir du pois.

Other scenes of the relays included: 64 athletes being treated by Jerry Coron at the Red Cross tent for various spike wounds, shin skins and bloody noses. . . . Billy Doolittle and Jeff DeHaven off to themselves disagramming football plays. . . . later Doolittle was seen with Vern Hoffman and this time the little black rings were basketball players. . . . Ohio U. football coach Carroll Widdoes among many other distinguished guests. . . . Gene Strathman, the celebrated discus thrower, being photographed right and left and razzed all the time by his Brush high teammates. Strathman, six-two, and a 17-year-old senior, was an all-conference football tackle and captain of a team which lost only one game. He also

Sensational Rookie Helps Tigers Score Another Win

By RALPH RODEN

NEW YORK —(AP)— Johnny Groth, sensational rookie outfielder of the Detroit Tigers, helped the Tigers score another victory yesterday.

Groth scored the winning run in the Tigers, 5-4, ten inning triumph over the Cleveland Indians. He singled to start the tenth and raced home when Thurman Tucker fumbled Bob Swift's long single to left. Groth sent the game into overtime with a run scoring single in the eighth.

The 22-year-old recruit is banging away at a .529 clip. He has hit safely in each of Detroit's five games and his collection includes three homers, six singles, eight runs batted in and six scored.

Hal Newhouser went the distance for Detroit, scattering ten hits, including home runs by Joe Gordon and Ken Keltner. The triumph was the Detroit southpaw's second of the season. Sam Zoldak, who relieved starter Early Wynn in the eighth, was the loser.

RED SOX TRIUMPH

Vern Stephens led the Boston Red Sox to a 11-8 slugfest triumph over the New York Yankees. Stephens slammed two homers and a triple and drove in five runs. The Yanks, who suffered their first loss in five starts, staged a six-run rally in the fourth but the Sox came right back with five in their half, four of them on a grand slam homer by Stephens.

The Red Sox won the game in the eighth inning, scoring three runs to snap an 8-8 tie. Bobby Doerr doubled home one run and Sam Mele tripled across two.

Home runs highlighted the Chicago White Sox's 12-5 triumph over the St. Louis Browns. Steve Souchock, former Yankee, hammered two and ageless Luke Appling one for the Sox. Less Moss, Al Zarilla and Jack Graham homered for the Browns.

The Philadelphia Athletics went wild against the Washington Senators, pounding out 20 hits and a 14-1 triumph. Sam Chapman led the A's assault against Rae Scaraborough and Ed Klieman with two doubles and two singles in four official trips. Dick Fowler started and after the A's scored five times in the top of the seventh to take a 10-0 lead, he retired in favor of Charley Harris.

BRAVES ROUTED

Catcher Mickey Livingston drove home four runs to lead the New York Giants to a 11-3 rout over the Boston Braves. Livingston socked a two-run homer and two singles. The Giants clubbed five Boston pitchers for 16 hits. Monte Kennedy checked the Braves on ten.

The Brooklyn Dodgers made the most of six bases on balls to score seven runs in the first four innings and defeat the Philadelphia Phillies, 8-6. The Dodgers took the lead for keeps in the second when Pee Wee Reese doubled home three runs. Erv Palica, who relieved started Rex Barney in the fourth, allowed nine hits but was tough in the pinches and picked up the decision.

The Pirates-Cincinnati Reds game at Pittsburgh was postponed because of wet grounds.

Olympia Plows Through Mud To Win Wood

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK — (AP) — Fred W. Hooper's Olympia churned through mud and rain in the final yards yesterday to capture the $46,400 Wood Memorial before 43,669 screaming patrons at Jamaica.

The result definitely moved Olympia up a couple of more pegs in the estimation of turf followers who are thinking about the Kentucky Derby two weeks hence.

It also gave a tremendous boost to Isidor Bieber's Palestinian, the colt Olympia had to beat the last 40 yards to drag down the winner's share of $31,850.

In fact, Olympia and Jockey Eddie Arcaro appeared whipped when about 10 lengths from home but surged in front to zip under the wire by a neck margin and win the camera's decision.

Eight horses started the mile and one-sixteenth classic, being run for the 25th time. Greentree stable's well-liked Capot was third, six lengths back of Palestinian, and Eugene Jacobs' Colonel Mike, fourth.

Joe W. Brown's Rookwood was fifth, King Ranch's Curandero, sixth; Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Model Cadet, seventh, and C. Mahlon Kline's Slam Bang, last. Slam Bang was the only non-derby horse in the field.

Olympia was clocked in 1:45 flat for the route.

Pedigree Victor At Golden Gate

ALBANY, Calif.—(AP)—Closing with a tremendous rush, Pedigree, nominated for the Kentucky Derby, won the $20,000 added Golden Gate Derby at Golden Gate fields yesterday.

Blue Dart finished second after racing in front into the home stretch turn. Smart Count ran third and Moonrush fourth.

The time for a mile and one furlong was 1:49.

Jack Westrope, weighted at 120 pounds, rode Pedigree. The victory was worth $17,950.

Football Coach Keeps Editors Off His Back

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — (AP) — A college football coach traded jobs with two newspaper sports editors here Friday night and wrote: "This is really great!"

The editors of San Diego's two evening papers, Ken Bojens of the Daily Journal and George Herrick of the Tribune-Sun, directed rival teams in a game at San Diego State College.

In his role as substitute editor, regular State coach Bill Schutte said in his by-lined report: "If this arrangement could be worked out all over the country during football season few coaches would have the newspapers on their backs."

He opined the two teams were evenly matched and the outcome was "squarely on the shoulders" of Bojens and Herrick.

The teams were chosen from Schutte's spring training squad.

41 Base Hits Rip Pitchers

TOLEDO—(AP)—Kansas City's Blues, American Association pennant favorite, scored a nightmarish 17-15 decision over the Toledo Mud Hens yesterday in a wind-blown 12-inning battle that produced 41 hits off nine pitchers.

The Blues tied the score with four runs in the ninth, Jimmy Desling batting in three with a triple, and finished it with three in the 12th.

A walk to Bill Drescher, singles by Joe Muffoletto and Bob Keegan, the winning pitcher, and a two-bagger by Joe Collins accounted for the final runs. It was the second straight game lost by the Hens in extra innings.

Newhouser Allows 12 Hits But Wins

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Prince Hal Newhouser pitched effectively in the clutch yesterday and Johnny Groth scored the winning run as the Detroit Tigers beat the Cleveland Indians 5 to 4 in 10 innings here Saturday.

It was the second 10-inning affair in a row between the two clubs. The Tigers scored the winning counter when rookie sensation Groth raced all the way from first base, after Thurman Tucker fumbled Bob Swift's long single to left field.

Newhouser was touched for 12 hits, including home runs by Joe Gordon and Ken Keltner, but was effective in the tight spots, leaving 10 of the world champions stranded. It was his second victory of the season.

GIVES UP 11

Early Wynn gave up 11 hits in the seven innings he worked. Siz Zoldak replaced Wynn in the eighth after Groth's single drove in Paul Campbell to make the score 4-all. Zoldak walked Eddie Lake at that point to load the bases, but retired the next three Bengal hitters.

Larry Doby, who has hit safely in all five Tribe games, opened the ninth by dragging a successful bunt down the first base line. Boudreau fouled twice attempting to bunt, then Doby moved to second on Prince Hal's second wild pitch of the game.

The Tiger lefty then stopped the rally. He forced Boudreau to fly out to right, and after passing Gordon intentionally, he also got Keltner and Vernon on fly balls to the outfield.

Besides the timely hitting of Groth, the Tiger offensive was sparked by Vic Wertz and Johnny Lipon, and each hit safely three times.

Gordon, a hero in Friday's overtime battle, hit a single with his home run, and drove in two of the Tribe's tallies.

Zoldak, who gave up three hits in his two and one third inning relief stint, was given the loss.

A crowd of 21,883 attended the see-saw affair and huddled under the grandstand roofs until the wind blew the rain clouds away.

County Marble Tourney Slated

Richland county youngsters will have an opportunity to compete in the national marbles tournament in Atlantic city in July.

But first they will have to climb up the tournament ladder through school, county and state competition.

The Richland county competition will be sponsored by the Mansfield Lions club, President James W. Miller, announced last night. Miller has appointed Ralph Juniper, Senior high school teacher, as chairman of the "mibs" tournament committee.

Students who will not pass their 15th birthday before June 1, 1949 will be eligible to compete. Each school in Richland county will conduct its own tournament during the next three weeks.

The school champions will then meet May 28 in Mansfield for the county title. The county "king" will be eligible for the state finals in Cleveland, June 11.

All expenses of the county champion to the state finals will be paid by the Mansfield Lions. If the Richland county champ wins the state title he will get an all-expenses paid trip to the nationals.

Rules for the competition will be announced later, Miller said.

Tyger Track Men Defend Top Titles

Four baseball games, a golf match, tennis match, and a major track meet are on tap for Mansfield schoolboy athletes this week.

Every day except Wednesday has at least one event carded but the choice plums will be saved until the last two days of the week. Senior high and Madison will have their long-awaited baseball game on Friday (weather permitting) and the Tyger track team Saturday will defend the Urichsville Relays crown it won last year.

The Senior high diamond aggregation has two games scheduled besides the engagement with its cross-town rivals. Marion will come here for a game Monday afternoon and Willard Tuesday. Both games are slated for 4 p. m. at Liberty park. The Marion game was rained out Friday.

Impartial fans will have a choice between two games Tuesday afternoon as Madison is to entertain Lucas at 3:30 p. m. at Blue Goose park. The Rams won, 12-0, in an earlier meeting of the schools.

The Senior high golf and tennis teams will both go after their second victories. The netmen invade Norwalk Tuesday afternoon while the golf team is to go to Shelby for a meet Thursday.

The Urichsville Relays are a one-day affair with preliminaries Saturday morning and the finals Saturday afternoon.

Angelo Keeps Crown, Taking Hall Easily

Martino Angelo, the Toledo roughie, had little trouble retaining his junior heavyweight wrestling championship last night at the Ashland road armory.

Angelo took over Stacy Hall, the Columbus city detective, in two straight falls, winning the first in 15 minutes and the second in eight. Hall suffered a slight reinjury of his "trick" hip in the second fall and Angelo won easily with a toe hold.

TWO IN A ROW

However, all laurels must go to the tag team match. Four of the roughest fellows in the grunt and groan "racket" mixed it up with nary a dull moment. Whitey Whittler and Pancho Valentino grabbed the first fall but Wild Bill Zimovich and Buzz Jones took the next pair to win the match.

George Strickland defeated Bob Blake in the opener in 18 minutes.

Promoter Clete Kauffman announced last night that Don Eagle, full-blooded Iroquois Indian heavyweight, will headline next Saturday's card. His opponent will be announced Tuesday.

Stranahan Takes 'Am' Links Title

PINEHURST, N. C. — (AP) — Three down twice in the morning round, Frank Stranahan drew even at lunch time and then moved on to a 2 and 1 victory yesterday over Harvie Ward in the finals of the North and South amateur golf tournament.

The British amateur champion from Toledo thus reversed the outcome of last year's championship battle when the University of North Carolina Junior from Tarboro, N. C., defeated him, 1 up.

Calumet Star Wins In Walk

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. — (AP) — Coaltown was brought out yesterday to give Maryland racing fans their first look at his speed, but they're still waiting.

The Calumet Farm star went to the post alone for the Edward Burke handicap. Jockey Steve Brooks, up on Coaltown for the first time, just let the 4-year-old romp through the mile and sixteenth of mud.

The time of 1:52 1/5 was nine and two-fifths seconds lower than the track record. Jockey Brooks had a hard time holding the colt in and came close to losing a stirrup at the finish.

The Havre De Grace management cut the $15,000 purse in half because it was a walkover. This hiked Coaltown's earnings to $195,825 in two years of racing.

Gehrmann Runs Top Outdoor Mile Race

LAWRENCE, Kas. —(AP)— Don Gehrmann of Wisconsin ran the fastest outdoor mile of the season yesterday to win the "Glenn Cunningham" race, feature of the Kansas relays, in 4 minutes 10.1 seconds.

He beat graduate student Jerry Thompson of Texas by a good 30 yards.

Battle of the tiny milers—Gehrmann, a 130 pounder, and Thompson, 120 pounds—provided the outstanding entertainment for an estimated 10,000 fans who sat under a bright, warm sun for the 24th running of the track carnival.

His time tied the relays record set by Blaine Rideout, north Texas state, in 1940.

Gerhmann is the national collegiate 1,500 meter champion and winner of the Wannamaker mile at 4:09.5 in tthe Milrose games last winter.

He trailed Thompson for three-fourths of the test. Then the Badger state pulled even with Thompson, fastest miler ever developed in the southwest, about 200 yards from the finish.

Thompson spurted to take the lead again before Gehrmann turned on the kick in the stretch to win by a good 30 yards.

Whacky Setup Features Big Shot Tourney

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Plans have been completed for the world's wackiest golf tournament—the only golf tournament in which nobody asks the question: Do you know how to play golf?

The Washington Post's third annual national celebrities golf tournament will be played June 4-5.

And at the top of the list will not be the pros you keep reading about all the time.

In the center ring will be such performers as Bob Hope, Bing Crosby and Arthur Godfrey.

In the side rings will be Gen. Omar Bradley, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Admiral Chester Nimitz.

Also among the expected performers: Cabinet members, representatives, senators and probably a Supreme court justice or two.

Strangely, some of the better-known personalities are also good golfers (if you're not too critical). Crosby, for example, shoots a pretty steady stick. So do Senators Taft (R.-Ohio) and Lucas (D.-Ill.).

BIG SHOTS ONLY

But the question asked of participants isn't, are you a hot shot? It's, are you a big shot?

Fortunately, this permits a number of first class golfers to attend, too, particularly among the oldtimers whose names have already become legendary.

Bus Ham, Post sports editor and head ringmaster for the tournament, said he expects such golfers as:

Byron Nelson, Gene Sarazen, Walter Hagen, Tommy Armour, Lawson Little, Jimmy Thomson, Henry Picard, Freddie McLeod, Babe Didrikson (she's always been a standout in this meet) and Patty Berg.

Frank Stranahan and Willie Turnesa, two topflight amateurs, are expected to join Francis Ouimet and Chick Evans, two of the greatest of the oldtime amateurs.

The point of all this?

To raise money for the Post's program of keeping youngsters out of mischief by keeping them playing games.

Oberlin Thinlies Win

GRANVILLE — (AP) — Oberlin college's thin-clads defeated Denison, 71 to 56, in a dual track meet here yesterday. The meet was featured by the winning discus throw of Don Logie, of Oberlin, who tossed the plate 143 feet, four and ¾ inches for a new Deeds Field record.

Random Shots . . .

With

Don Miller

Good news for area sportsmen! The average length of the crappies test-netted in Charles Mill dam is almost a full inch longer than it was when the nets were pulled in last fall.

We enjoyed a visit with Bill Atterholt, fish production foreman for District 2, while he was working on the lake this past week. The weather was alternately bad, rotten and worse, but Bill and his assistant worked right along, marking and measuring fish.

The average size of crappies in Charles Mill last fall ran around six inches, Atterholt said, and this latest check, completed Thursday, showed the average to be almost squarely on the seven-inch mark. At the same time, Bill asked that fishermen who try their prowess on Muskingum Watershed lakes make it a practice to keep ALL the fish they catch.

"That's the purpose of lifting the limits on size and number," he explained. "Tests indicate that these lake are overstocked and we want to cut down on the fish population. This will enable the surviving fish to grow much larger."

In addition, he urged that anyone catching a marked fish report it to the boat house. (These marked fish have either a tail or fin squared off.) The state man pointed out that this would greatly assist the conservation department in studying the habits and rate of growth of the fish.

He also said more bass are appearing in the test nets this spring than last fall but declined to come right out and say there are more bass. Instead he pointed out that more bass are usually netted in the spring than in the fall but even so, the number seems to be above that usually found at Charles Mill.

Also along the lines of controlling rough fish, the state men have been keeping all shad and small crappies taken in the test nets. The shad are being destroyed, as are carp, while the crappies under six inches are being used to stock other public fishing waters in this area.

Bill will send a complete report along as soon as he has time to consolidate his notes for the past two weeks. Then we can let you know the exact score on fish at this particular lake.

A couple more notes from Charles Mill: Mr. and Mrs. Glen McCarthy took advantage of a good day this past week to take 41 crappies from the lake in three hours, then followed it up with almost as many a day or so later (just before the snows set in), No exact figures were available as to the number caught by each of them, but it's almost a cinch Mrs. McCarthy caught more than her spouse. Nothing personal-- it just so happens that fish will ignore a man's line while they fairley leap out of the water after a woman's. It never fails.

Kenny Wassem has had a couple of inquiries concerning the casting instruction he has volunteered and adds that he'll be glad to do anything else he can along the lines of a youth program, and includes anyone from eight to 80 in his offer. He reminds me a lot of Jim Burkhart, Gus Miller, Ralph Peat and several others who are doing a lot of darned good work along this line but don't say much about it. Thoses are the kind of fellows who convince me that the future isn't too dark for Ohio wildlife.

Also, Kenny reports that there is an apparent misunderstanding concerning the regulations on the north part of the lake. Liberalized fishing is in effect there, the same regulations pertaining to the rest of the lake, but motors are prohibited unless the user is on official business for the watershed.

Things look rough on the Clear Fork situation. I expressed an opinion two weeks ago that fishing could and should be permitted there by the city, but I took issue with the use of motors on the lake.

It didn't take long for one fellow to remark that he was a little irked with me for my statement. He believed motors should be used on the reservoir.

Right here is as good a place as any to let the sportsmen and city officials know where you stand. That's why we have the 'letters-from-our-readers' sectio It's wide open and we'll print everything we have room for. Maybe you don't agree with what I have to say, but don't hesitate to take me to task.

Get your thoughts right out here where the sportsmen can see both sides of the question. Maybe there are some points I'm overlooking in taking my stand as I have and I'll be more than glad to hear any arguments that can be advanced FOR the use of motors on the lake.

Kenny Berry seemed a little annoyed at the cold weather the past few days and I can't say that I blame him. He came home from Sites' Lake with two nice bass, 17 and 18 inches, just before the cold snap settled in.

Now he has to wait for warmer weather before getting the BIG one that's lying out there. As an added pain in the neck, he's planning a muskie trip down on the Muskingum but has no desire to crack the ice.

Fish Have Better Ears Than Humans

NEW YORK — (AP) — Some fish can hear very well, even better than humans.

This is the finding of Dr. Karl von Frisch, famous Austrian zoologist. Some fish can tell the difference between sounds as close as two notes of a piano. And sometimes a fish can even learn the difference between half tones.

Dr. von Frisch trained blinded fish to expect food when he blew a note on a whistle, above water. They came for food in response to that note, but not to others.

The fish in water could hear tones barely audible in the air to humans, he said. A human, with his head underwater, couldn't hear the sounds quite as well as the fish.

Fresh water fish, like minnows, carp and catfish, hear better than fish that live in the sea. The good hearers among fish have air bladders connected by tiny bones with their inner ear. The air bladders pick up the vibrations of sound.

Dr. von Frisch is most noted for his work in solving the curious language of the bees. This is a dance through which a scout bee tells other bees how far away nectar-laden flowers are, what direction, and even how good the pickings are. Dr. von Frisch is lecturing in the United States, under the sponsorship of Cornell University and the Rockefeller Foundation.

Farmers Just Pick Fish Out of Water

Word comes from out Kansas way that fishermen have had an easy time of it this past week–they just picked fish up and carried them home by the sack loads.

The Missouri cracked through an old levee and the fish could be seen in about six inches of water, a wire service reported.

Fishermen and farmers used spears to bag their fish.

OLD ANGLER SAYS

Sure do like this spring weather for crappie fishing. Jes gimme some good lively shiners, a spot where the waves are beating against the shore and I'll catch some fish.

Weekly Casting Matches Will Begin May 5

Local Club Backs Youth Participation

Prizes Offered To Youngsters

Weekly casting matches with special emphasis on an enlarged youth program were outlined at a meeting of the Mansfield Casting club Thursday night.

The group, meeting at the YMCA, agreed to hold weekly matches on Thursday nights starting the season at 6 p. m., May 5. Tentative plans call for three classes for adults, A, B and C. Casters will be graded according to ability displayed at the initial meetings of the club.

All youngsters under the age of 16 will be eligible for special prizes at the weekly matches and several persons have agreed to provide instruction for the youths. Adults who participate in the casting events will be charged 15 cents per event in order to pay the cost of sporting merchandise which will be given as prizes.

The possibilities of having a challenge team to compete against casters from other area sportsmen's clubs were discussed and matches are to be arranged later in the season. Plans outlined included three monthly tournaments for Mansfield youngsters with a trophy and sporting equipment going to the winners each month. At the end of the season the monthly winners will meet in a special match for the championship trophy.

Those attending the meeting agreed that fishing tackle for tournament use should be open, thus enabling spinning enthusiasts to compete against bait casters. If enough interest is evinced a special fly casting division will be set up.

E. J. Horning, 1948 president of the group, was appointed as temporary 1949 president until two or three meets have been held. Following these, the membership will elect regular 1949 officers.

Horning appointed a Ways and Means committee to investigate the chances for installing suitable lighting facilities at Liberty park so night events can be held this year. The committee, composed of Willis Jones, Ken Woodman, M. Taylor, and Glen Heinberger, requested that Horning act as committee chairman.

Kenny Wassem, concessionaire at Charles Mill dam, revealed that he is planning to install a casting target range near the boat house. The range will be used by Boy Scouts and other groups which he will instruct in the fundamentals of bait casting. A tournament will be scheduled among these groups and the winners will meet those who cop the titles at the Mansfield Casting club events for the city title.

Young Anglers Get Chance to Test Skill

Fishing may be slow at some of the larger lakes this summer, but Mansfield youngsters will be able to fish in Liberty Park and know there's something there to catch.

As has been the custom for the past couple of years, the Game association, working with the State Conservation commission, has just transferred a number of carp from Charles Mill dam to the park.

This year, in addition to the carp, the Fish and Game has placed a number of crappies in the park lake. So the younger anglers will find variety as well as plenty of fish. Two full tankloads of fish were transplanted in the effort to furnish sport for the kids who would otherwise seldom get a chance to go fishing.

Jim Burkhart, president of the Fish and Game association, donated the use of his truck and time to effect the stocking of the lake.

In former years the same practice has been followed at North Lake park but this has been dropped for this spring. Repair work is scheduled at this park and rather than lose fish by placing them now, the association plans to stock that lake in the fall when test nets are again placed in Charles Mill.

In an effort to add more variety to the fishing last year, the association placed a number of suckers in the Liberty pond. These failed to survive, however, so the youngsters had only carp to catch.

As is apparent in the pictures shown on this page, some of the carp are big enough to put up plenty of fight against a featherweight five-year-old!

5 Plan Trout Fishing Trip

At least five Mansfielders will be answering the 'call of the wild' late this coming week. The five are scheduled to make a trek to Yuma, Michigan Thursday for the opening of the trout season.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shettler, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cropper, and George Gernhardt are scheduled to make the trip to the Slagle Trout club in the heart of the Manistee State forest.

The club, having a membership of 50 persons, controls 10 miles of trout stream and a large pond in that section of the country.

Group Releases 100 Pheasants

SHELBY — Carl Bender, president of the Pheasants division of the Shelby Conservation league, reported that 100 mature pheasants have been released within three miles of Shelby.

The Conservation league also announced that 1949 memberships were now available.

The directors of the league said that another load of fish would be placed in Conservation Lake in addition to the load placed last fall.

PLAN PLAY MAY 6

IBERIA, — Iberia senior classmen are conducting daily rehearsals with 11 players on a 3-act comedy, "Good Morning Glory" which is scheduled to be presented at the Iberia school auditorium Friday night, May 6, according to Miss Maxine Gillam, director.

More Deer Sighted Here

Jealousy has moved into the animal world two reports revealed this past week. The Ohio deer, evidently miffed at all the publicity given the Easter rabbit, have been making more appearances.

Three half-grown deer, a buck and two does, were sighted by Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Summerville near Home road this past week. The deer were spotted in early morning. Adding to the novelty was the fact that the animals were sighted within a half-mile of the city limits.

Two others, a buck and a doe, were seen by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Palmer, near Ontario. The deer were gamboling about the Palmer garden when they were spotted.

These reports lend credence to predictions that deer are becoming more plentiful in the state and that more counties may be opened for hunting this coming fall

Outlook for Ohio Pheasant Hunting Good

The best pheasant season for several years should be experienced in Ohio this coming fall, according to Jack Van Coevering, Sports Afield writer.

In the May issue, due April 29, Van Coevering covered the pheasant prospects for the various states and declared Ohio faced one of the best seasons in a long time.

Jimmie Stuber, outstanding Ohio outdoors writer, was quoted as saying 15 per cent more brood stock was left over at the end of the 1948 season than at the end of the previous year.

He added that Ohio carried 4,500 pheasants through the winter for liberation in early March. These were released at a ratio of six hens to one cock.

General outlook for other states is better than in 1948, the article revealed.

Rivals Battle Over Sandusky Bay

Committee Dodges Action On Hot Issue

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Andrew Turnisky of Marblehead is deeply bronzed and his hands are hard from 45 years of commercial fishing—39 of them in Lake Erie's Sandusky bay.

He's not a speechmaker, but in his direct way, he told the legislature's House conservation committee his livelihood and that of his brother were tied to their fishing business.

"I'm too old to get another job," he said simply.

The Turnishkys and others like them were all but lost in the throng that overflowed the Ohio capitol's biggest hearing room the past week. The others were "hook and line" fishermen and their friends asking to oust commercial fishermen from the 50 mile bay lying west of Cedar Point and Marblehead.

Sportsmen want to turn the bay into a hook and line fishermen's paradise. They claim the 300 - rod nets of commercial fishermen ruin what once was one of the nation's best and most accessible sport fishing spots. Lake Erie has nearly 5,000 square miles of other water for net fishermen, they point out.

The Turniskys claim carp are the real culprits. They add that commercial fishermen are the only ones cleaning out carp and other coarse fish disdained by sportsmen.

For staging, the hearing rivaled the elaborate setting of the Lorain-East Liverpool conveyor belt "rubber railroad" follies. Spectators at the fish hearing shed their coats in the overheated room. Only a floorshow was lacking. Perhaps it was just as well. An active chorus might have found it more comfortable to take off more.

Legislation to bring about the Sandusky bay fishing paradise was too hot for the committee. Members sent it to a three - man sub - committee deep freeze.

Navy May Follow Army With Two Platoon System

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — (AP) — Navy's football team, loser of eight games last season, apparently has so much strength this year it might adopt enemy tactics—the two platoon system.

The middle football squad "will be deeper and stronger" next fall, said head coach George Sauer after the midshipmen wound up spring training.

To back up this statement, Sauer disclosed "we're considering using the platoon system"

The two-platoon system—one unit on defense and another on offense—was popularized by Army last season. However, despite Army's power, winless Navy managed to hold the cadets to surprising 21-21 tie in the traditional inter-service clash.

Sauer has ten lettermen back from the indomitable squad that played a schedule of "suicide Saturdays" last fall.

Navy May Follow Army With Two Platoon System

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — (AP) — Navy's football team, loser of eight games last season, apparently has so much strength this year it might adopt enemy tactics—the two platoon system.

The middie football squad "will be deeper and stronger" next fall, said head coach George Sauer after the midshipmen wound up spring training.

To back up this statement, Sauer disclosed "we're considering using the platoon system."

The two-platoon system—one unit on defense and another on offense—was popularized by Army last season. However, despite Army's power, winless Navy managed to hold the cadets to surprising 21-21 tie in the traditional inter-service clash.

Sauer has ten lettermen back from the indomitable squad that played a schedule of "suicide Saturdays" last fall.

Stammerer Devises Method To Overcome S-s-tut-tering

WINTER PARK, Fla. — (AP) — A woman with 60 years of stammering in her family has teamed with her husband to devote their finances and the latter years of their lives to correcting the stuttering of others.

She is 54-year-old Eleanor Weston Emery, he Theodore, 60. They have been helping children and adults since 1935.

Mrs. Emery's eldest brother was a stammerer. She herself stammered so badly she could obtain no formal education and had to do with private tutors and several years abroad. Her first son, now 28, still stammers a little. Two other sons never stuttered.

Her first son was growing up when she finally realized no one could cure her—that she had to help herself and her son. She now speaks clearly. Her husband has a speech hesitancy, but says it comes from difficulty in choosing the right word in conversation "and I guess association with stutterers hasn't helped, either."

The two conduct the non-profit Emery institute here, incorporated under Florida law and so recognized by the United States treasury department. On the advisory committee are such persons as Author Irving Bacheller and Dr. Kathryn Abbey Hanna, also a professor at Rollins college here; Dr. Eugene R. Smith, Rollins trustee, and the Rt. Rev. Oliver L. Loring, Episcopal bishop of the diocese of Maine.

"Strangely, Mrs. Emery says, "a stammerer can talk perfectly when he is alone, when very angry, usually while singing or when absolutely unconscious of self. He can always talk to a pet without stammering when he is alone with it.

Small Firms Lack Leader Development

CHICAGO—(AP)—Why does big business absorb small firms in the $250,000 to $5,000,000 class?

"Because," says a management research firm, "small business has failed to develop" an executive hierarchy capable of running it after the death of the founder.

Dr. Burleigh B. Gardner, president of Social Research, Inc., which includes psychologists, anthropologists and sociologists, headed a survey of the question.

In an interview, Dr. Gardner cited reports of President Truman's council of economic advisers. These he quoted as saying:

"Year by year the control of the market is passing more largely into the hands of the large corporations, not only by internal growth but by the absorption of the small firms."

Noting that the council's report said small firms can compete successfully, Dr. Gardner asked: "If they can compete successfully, why is the process of absorption continuing?"

His answer, based on the survey of a number of firms in the $250,000-$5,000,000 assets range is this:

"One fact stands out in startling fashion, that many of these firms are basically owner-managed operations with little provision for the development of an executive organization able to operate the business in event of the death of the president.

"The fact is that with many of the one-man firms the founder was a man of great ability and tremendous energy. In the early stages, he was everything—he knew everything, could do every job, and made every decision.

"As the organization grew, he continued to dominate. He not only felt he could do everything better than everyone else, but he also loved to do it.

"But at no time did he give real thought to building a managerial organization. His sons had titles, but he still did everything.

"They never learned to make decisions, to carry real responsibility, to make errors and learn thereby, nor to fight their way up in the competitive world.

"So when the founder dies, the organization is left without real leadership. Morale and efficiency decline. Before anyone is quite aware of the seriousness of the situation, the business has lost its competitive position, and all the family can do is sell out—and the only capital waiting for such a buy is usually the large corporation."

Dr. Gardner said that in many such cases, responsibility falls on a plant manager who has been trained to "let the old man do it, and who consequently has lost the vision or versatility necessary in competition."

When a second line man is suddenly thrown into such a position, Dr. Gardner added, he usually makes "genuine attempts to take over roles for which he is unprepared. This leads to emotional strain which cuts his judgment capacity, or he falls back on the judgment of the owners or the board of directors, neither of which is equipped for rapid decision.

"Sometimes cliques, which have been held down by the old man's drive, further disrupt the organization.

"The remedies," Dr. Gardner concluded, "are obvious: find and develop executive talent through the various testing processes now available; and be sure that the old man, in himself, really understands the functioning of his organization."

Jap Official Owns Store

TOKYO — (AP) — Ichiro Honda is something of a symbol of postwar Japan.

The 54-year-old Honda is a member of the Diet. Recently he was appointed cabinet minister without portfolio. He is expected to handle reorganization of Japan's bureaucracy, which will entail firing thousands of surplus government employes.

Yet Honda himself runs a candy store to try to make ends meet.

He and his wife live upstairs over the store in Tokyo's Fukagawa section. Sharing their cramped quarters are his son, two daughters and a grandson.

Like a good many people, Honda is struggling just to break even. His salary in the Diet equals about $100 a year, so he has to keep store to live.

"It means I don't have to borrow from friends or relatives," he said, implying that his store made it easier to turn down bribes that have been the downfall of many a postwar politician.

Honda has had better training for an austere life than many other politicians. From a poor family, he worked his way through school and college, finally getting a law degree from Chuo university.

Now this mild-mannered man with the graying mustache has been handed one of the touchiest problems facing the government. In attempting to streamline the government's bureaucratic structure and save money, he is expected to have to take the responsibility for putting several thousand people out of thir jobs.

Honda dosn't seem to mind the burden. In the early morning and late afternoon he still tends store by sitting out in front, reading the papers and talking to passersby.

Navy and Marine Corps recruiting offices in Mansfield reported a new demand for men in their respective branches of the services.

Chief Quartermaster Arthur R. Jockisch, in charge of the Navy station, urged all boys to finish high school before enlisting in the Navy. Chief Jockisch said chances for promotion were much greater if the boy has completed high school.

Transatlantic Travel In Boom Stage Again

NEW YORK—(AP)—Transatlantic travel is getting back to the lush levels of 1929.

Transportation men figure well over a million passengers will sail or fly the Atlantic this year.

They say they'll have no trouble topping the figures for 1938, the last normal travel year.

And they are confident they'll come within striking distance of the number of transatlantic passengers carried in 1929, the year they chalked up the all-time record.

Statistics show steamships ferried 1,380,000 passengers across the Atlantic in record-breaking 1929 and transported 1,056,000 passengers on the Atlantic run during the last year of normal travel, 1938.

These figures include the passenger lists of United States and foreign lines alike. They are the total of passengers carried in both directions—eastbound and westbound.

Ships had the transatlantic business all to themselves in those days. There was no real competition from the airplane.

A few commercial aircraft maintained flight schedules across the Atlantic just before the war. But the number of passengers they carried was extremely small when compared with the number of people traveling.

During the war transocean flying developed into a routine operation almost overnight.

And today transportation sources figure planes are ferring as high as 50 per cent of the transatlantic passenger business in the more plush rate brackets.

The steamship men were left with only a handful of passenger vessels immediately after the war ended. Reconditioning of old ships and construction of new vessels moved slowly.

The commercial airlines built up their transocean business rapidly, adding flights as rapidly as equipment became available.

Transportation men say 966,000 transatlantic passengers were carried by ship and plane in 1948; the exact number who flew the Atlantic isn't available but aviation sources estimate planes carried about 220,000 of that number.

Behind the steady post - war increase in transatlantic travel this year is a general bettering of conditions abroad.

Foreign countries are in better shape for tourists than they have been. Accommodations are more comfortable; food is more ample; clothing rationing has ended in Britain. And many foreign nations have dropped visa requirements.

Shipping men say it would be a cinch to top the 1929 record if they had the vessels to carry their potential passengers.

There are going to be about nine more passenger ships in the Atlantic trade this year than there were in 1948.

In the pre - war days between 60 and 65 passenger vessels were regularly on the transatlantic service. Both foreign and American lines came out of the war with a shortage in this type of vessel and foreign lines have been outbuilding the United States since the end of hostilities.

There were 25 passenger ships of all registry plying the Atlantic last year and this year there will be 34 before the season winds up.

Shipping men figure the six vessels operated by Cunard - White Star in 1948, including the two Queens, did about one-third of the transatlantic business last year.

United States vessels are going to do more of the business this year than they did last, but this country still has a way to go before it gets very close to the passenger carrying capacity of the British.

The new super liner, which will be built at Newport News, Va., yards will add materially to United States' carrying capacity but not for a year or two.

In ancient Rome every freeman was permitted to wear an iron ring.

'Indian' Puts Bite On Ohio Shoppers

EAST LIVERPOOL — (AP) — Downtown shoppers were astonished yesterday when a blanket-clad "Indian" with a feather sticking out of his "warrior-style" haircut held out a beer mug for coins.

But the "mute" brave also carried a sign explaining he was bumming wampum on his fraternity pledge trip from Westminster college, New Wilmington, Pa., to Cleveland.

New Kitchen Charts Compare Food Values

NEW YORK —(AP)— Some new kitchen tables show the housewife a way to help her family to health.

These tables aren't the kind you sit at. They are charts showing, for the first time on a national scale, the food values in 42 common canned foods. They tell how much a can of peas, beans, apricots, orange juice, or kraut contains in calories, vitamins, proteins, carbohydrates, fats and minerals.

One finding is that you should drink or use the liquids in a can of solid foods. The liquid contains from 20 to 52 per cent of the vitamins in that food.

The charts are based on findings in research on 50,000 cans of food at nine leading universities. The study has been underway for six years, and is continuing. It is sponsored by the National Canners association and the Can Manufacturers institute. The canned foods tested came from more than 500 canneries over the country. All cans were taken from regular production, including early-season, mid-season and end-of-season items in each category.

They are intended to help dieticians, homemakers and military officials plan meals for a balanced diet that will meet daily needs for vitamins, proteins, minerals and other nutrients. Housewives can obtain copies from the National Canners association, (1739 H st., N. Y.) Washington, D. C.

The tests show that canned foods keep a high ratio of the vitamins, minerals and calories of the natural foods, said Dr. E. J. Cameron, research director of the association.

Of the 42 most-used foods tested, the richest in vitamin C are red sweet peppers and pimentos. Next are orange juice and grapefruit juice, then turnip greens, tomatoes, sweet potatoes and sauerkraut. The best in vitamin A are carrots, sweet potatoes, spinach, turnip greens and apricots. Peas are the richest source of vitamin B-1, or thiamin. Corn gives the most niacin, the anti-pellagra vitamin. Mushrooms are richest in riboflavin, vitamin B-2.

The tests show that 52 per cent of the vitamin C in a can of white whole kernel corn is in the liquid portion. The juice in a can of green asparagus contains 38 per cent of the vitamin B-1 in the whole can.

Investors OK Ward Director

CHICAGO —(AP)— Montgomery Ward and company today could concentrate on its job of selling diamonds and babies' nipples. It had gone through another managerial uproar and Sewell Avery, the 75-year old chairman, was still on top.

Along with the diamonds and babies' nipples were hundreds of other items which Avery assured stockholders were high quality merchandise. He said it wasn't that way when he came to Ward's in 1931. Then, he said Ward's was just a "low grade mail order house."

Stockholders liked what Avery said and they gave him a thumping vote of approval, re-electing him a director.

LOOKS 'EM OVER—Edward A. Getz, builder, looks at the houses he has constructed on Manchester road. A few years ago the spot where he is standing was the center of a pasture field.

New Homes Sprout In Pasture Field

Builder Cuts Own Development Pattern

If the residential area along Manchester road from Lexington avenue to Taylor road isn't exactly to the taste of Edward A. Getz, it's nobody's fault but his own.

Getz, a local building contractor, has developed the area from a pasture field which he purchased in 1943. In addition to constructing the houses, he put in the street and sewer lines, with the city's consent.

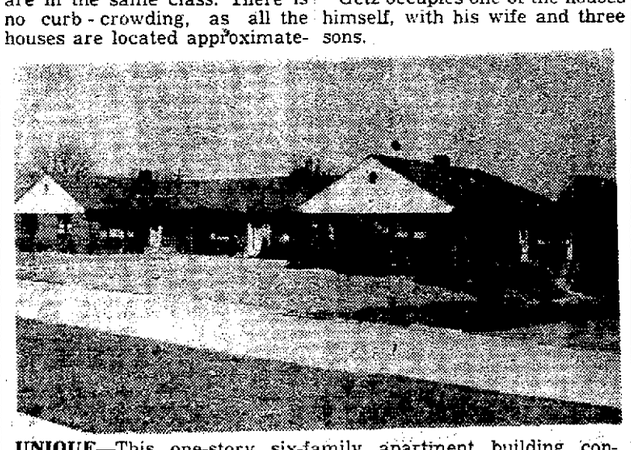
Getz began his building activity in 1945 after materials started to become available. He has built 10 houses and a six-family apartment. All but three are of brick construction. The houses are in the $18,000 class, with variation above or below this figure depending on size. His development in this area is nearly at an end, as there are only a few vacant lots left on the street.

Only six houses along the street were not built under Getz's supervision, but these are also in the same general price range. They are on lots which the contractor sold to help finance the street paving and sewer line projects.

This section of Manchester road was dedicated as a street, but had never been built. A boundry dispute apparently had a part in delaying action, Getz declared. After he became owner of the property, this problem was eliminated.

The development plan has resulted in uniformity that is often difficult to achieve. The houses do not follow a pattern, but all are in the same class. There is no curb-crowding, as all the houses are located approximately the same distance from the street.

Getz occupies one of the houses himself, with his wife and three sons.



UNIQUE—This one-story six-family apartment building constructed by Edward A. Getz as a part of his Manchester road development is believed to be the only one of its type in Mansfield. The building actually resembles three twin bungalows built together. Each apartment has its own heating apparatus, garage and laundry equipment in the basement which spreads beneath the entire building.

'Man Tax' Exemptions Slow Down Magistrate's Cleanup

LOUISVILLE, COL. — (AP) — It's a sure sign of spring when old John Kroell starts walking along Main street kicking at lumps of mud in the gutters and shaking his head.

Kroell, 73, is town magistrate. He feels personally responsible for this village's annual spring cleaning and for enforcing the peculiar "man tax" that makes it possible.

The tax dates back to 1892 and affects "able-bodied men between the ages of 21 and 60". War veterans are exempt.

The taxable males must pay three dollars annually or work it off at six-bits an hour on the sweaty end of a shovel or broom. All of the work is slanted at prettying-up the streets and alleys of this coal-mining community of 2,700. The winter mud is gouged out of the gutters, the streets are swept by hand and the alleys likewise polished.

If an eligible male refuses to produce his three bucks or a proportionate amount of elbow grease he is ordered into court and Kroell gives him pretty much of a bad time.

A typical Kroell reaction on such an occasion:

"Lissen, Buster, I spent more than 50 years hacking away in the coal mines (he quit only two years ago, at the age of 71) and I happen to know that a little work never hurt anybody. It's skipping work that hurts people. And it's going to hurt you, Buster. I'm fining you five dollars for a misdemeanor. And I'm fining you three and a half for court costs.

Kroell takes a chill view of the clause which exempts war veterans from the tax.

"After the first war a bunch of veterans came prissing down to the city hall," he recalls. "They said on account of they were in the war they shouldn't have to be man-taxed. I told them that the government paid them for working in the war and that an army man's hand fitted a shovel just as good as a draft exempt."

Nevertheless, the city's original ordinance was revised to exempt the warriors. After the second war a delegation of veterans visited the town's board of trustees and wangled a similar deal.

"These wars have really slowed us down," Kroell says. Last April (most of the work is done this month) we had only 190 men we could tax. We got 40 volunteer firemen that are exempt, and what with the veterans, too, you can see how we're fixed."

He figures that there are about 500 veterans and although he admits reluctantly he's "mighty proud of 'em", he still thinks they are unnecessarily complicating life for him.

Most of the taxable males prefer working to paying the three dollars.

A few professional men and well-to-do merchants and saloonkeepers pay the money. But they don't pay it to the city. The high school's football and basketball players have worked out a neat little racket in this respect. They collect from the white-collar boys, pocket the three dollars, then work it out for the city at 75 cents an hour. Kroell is not inclined to get excited about the fact some of them aren't 21.

House Traps Sunbeams to Provide Heat

Fuel Bills Eliminated

(Editor's note: This article on sun-heated homes is printed to give supplementary information on the Telkes and M. I. T. homes, which have been previously described in the Sunday News-Journal building section.)

DOVER, MASS. — (AP) — A Hungarian scientist trapped sunbeams to heat her house this winter and kissed goodbye to furnace chores and high fuel bills.

Attractive blonde Dr. Maria Telkes found her "solar house" comfortable, even in zero weather. It cost about $20,000—including $3,000 for the solar heat unit.

Although the unusual, open winter was not a good test, Dr. Telkes thinks solar heating is ideal for southern New England. Dr. Telkes lives in the house week ends with relatives, Dr. and Mrs. Anthony Nementhy, who are full-time occupants.

The furnace - free home is a private project designed so that the average sunshine will equal average heat requirements in winter.

The heating unit is built into the roof. This is mostly glass over an 800-foot square black metal sheet. Glauber's salt, melted under the rooftop sunshine, sends warm air to "heat bins" through the five - room house. Each bin serves two rooms through registers or heat outlets.

Dr. Telkes, an associate researcher in metallurgy at Massachusettes Institute of Technology, estimated the solar heating would warm the house through 10 sunless days.

She said this section's longest sunless stretch in the last 18 years was six days.

She reported the only current problems in the "solar house" were drafts around doorsills and floors that dry slowly after mopping. On the other hand, the system costs almost nothing to operate, and it gives even heat with no "overheated" spots.

"But," she advised, "in and around Boston is about as far north as you can go to build a solar house."

M.I.T.'s solar energy conversion committee is experimenting along that line, too.

Their solar house is on Memorial drive, Cambridge. They catch the sun's heat through many - paned sloping windows on the roof. And they use water instead of Glauber's salt to store and distribute the heat.

The sun - warmed water is pumped into a 1,200 - gallon storage tank, then circulated to room - heating ceiling panels.

Engineers plan to keep the house at 68 degrees at all times. But they have supplementary electric heating units to help out in cold, sunless weather. The house is insulated and has thick curtains on the double - paned windows.

Tech's solar house is only a few months old and the engineers said it was too soon to draw any conclusions on how it will work out.

Small Home Design No. 12

House Uses Cinder Block Construction

This small two bedroom home is designed for cement or cinder block construction, but it would look equally well built of brick veneer or wood siding. It is oblong in shape with only six corners which would make it economical to build.

You enter into a protected vestibule with a coat closet on the left. To your right is a large combined living and dining room with picture windows on opposite walls which give this room a very pretentious appearance. One wall of this room is solid which allows for plenty of wall space for the placement of furniture.

The compact, U-shaped kitchen is entered directly from the dining room and it is intended that an accordion pleated or sliding door be placed between these two rooms. The kitchen has a large picture window directly over the work table allowing space for potted plants and allowing for a pleasant view into the backyard.

The service entrance leads directly on to a landing, and the stairs to the basement are right in front of this entrance so that you do not have to turn to bring laundry or bulky items up and down from the basement.

The master bedroom is exceptionally large for a small house, and both bedrooms have cross ventilation. The larger of these two rooms has a picture window in the front which affords a pleasant view. Both bedrooms also have large storage wall closets which include ample space for hanging long garments, drawers for storage of flat clothing and shelf space for hats, shoes and other bulky items. With the storage wall closets, it is actually not necessary to have any other furniture in the bedroom other than a bed, dressing table and chair as there is room in the closet to store things ordinarily kept in bureaus and chest of drawers.

The bathroom is conveniently located to both bedrooms and the living room. The hallway leading to these rooms has a small closet for linen storage and a much larger closet for general purpose storage.

The basement extends under the kitchen, dining and living area, but not under the bedrooms. There is ample room in the basement for a modern laundry, heater room and recreation room.

The garage placed as it is shown is optional and could be unattached if so desired. As shown, the garage has a front door as well as a door in the back, and there is ample room along one wall for a small hobby shop or a place for storage of summer furniture, screens, storm windows and other bulky items.

Complete building plans and specifications are available for $5.00 per set from the Scale Model Home Planning Co., 819 Lafayett Building, Detroit, Michigan.

Urges Coordination In Hospital Setup

NEW YORK — (AP) — The government, Herbert Hoover charges, needlessly is enlarging its hospital system at a cost up to 50 per cent more than private hospitals.

He urges a united medical administration to coordinate five different federal hospital services — army, navy, veterans, public health and aid to private hospitals.

Construction Upped

WASHINGTON — (AP) — New construction in March cost an estimated $1,200,000,000 a nine per cent rise over February, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

A FRANK STATEMENT OF POLICY
We hear much talk these days of prices being lowered. In several fields moderate price reductions have already been made.
We are in favor of a lowered cost of living - - - and who is not? Many prices are too high. They should be reduced.
We consider it a healthy sign that these prices are being reduced. Today it is the sacred obligation of every American business man to cut his prices to the very lowest possible level consistent with sound business practice.
We, here in the insulation department of the McMahan Supply Company, have endeavored to do just that during the entire period of abnormal inflation.
We feel we have done a good job!
We have done such a good job that we can assure our customers that they can have their homes insulated today with no fear that prices will be reduced at a later date.
Unlike some lines — our insulation prices have not been inflated. As a result, they cannot be DEFLATED!
We can say to you with all honesty —
"NOW IS THE TIME TO HAVE YOUR HOME INSULATED. YOU CAN DO SO WITHOUT FEAR OF PRICE CUTBACKS."

Mansfield's New Citizens

Cupid Waited for Couple to Reach U. S.

Mrs. Amanda (Frank R) Scheel, 154 Wolfe avenue, came to the U. S. 20 years ago on a promise.

The only ties she had in America were her aunt and uncle, Mrs. Fritz Hoffman, 107 Wolfe avenue, who had promised she could come to live with them after they were settled in this country.

The high school graduate packed her belongings and said goodbye to her parents and friends in Hockenheim, Germany. Knowing not a word of English she sailed for the U. S.

She never dreamed at the time that she would marry a youth who had sailed from Stendal, Germany, the same year.

"Imagine crossing the ocean to find your husband," she laughed. "But then, we'd probably never have met if we had stayed in Germany."

Mrs. Scheel explained that she was brought up near the French border. Scheel, an employe of the Ohio Brass company, was reared near Berlin

And so, in September, 1936, it was Mrs. Scheel's turn to make a promise — to "love, honor and cherish."

With the same spirit of determination she exhibited when she came to an alien land 20 years ago, she had successfully conquered the avowedly difficult English language.

"Well, don't you think I should be able to talk a little after 20 years?" she retorted to a statement that her speech was almost without accent The accent that has remained is pleasant.

The last time she saw her homeland was in 1939 when she and her husband went back to Germany on a visit

"We left in June and expected to come back in September, but the war held up our passage until three weeks before Christmas," she said, adding that the only escape from warring Germany was through Holland

There's a big celebration planned at the Scheel household on July 4. Some 100 friends all from Hockenheim, are expected here for a get-together. They'll come from Rochester, N. Y., New York City, Chicago and other points of the east and mid-west.

Mrs. Scheel, who takes pride in keeping her home immaculate, says she finds little time for hobbies other than "being a housewife" and sewing for her two pretty daughters, Anita, 7 and Hildegarde, 6 Both girls are pupils at Prospect school

NEW DRESS FOR ANITA— Seven-year-old Anita Scheel smiles happily at her mother, Mrs. Frank R. Scheel, as she is measured for the hem length of a new dress Mrs Scheel, who enjoys making pretty dresses for her two equally pretty children, Anita, (shown in picture) and Hildegarde, came to this country 20 years ago She became a citizen three years ago The Scheels reside at 154 Wolfe avenue (N-J photo)

FIRE STATION VISITOR—New mascot at Central fire station is the friendly cub fox being held by Jack Brickley, 416 West Fifth street, one of four Mansfielders who captured it recently. Others who assisted in digging the cub out of a hole in a woods near Lexington were Bill Brickley, 148 North Weldon street, fireman at Central station; Charles Hunt, 119 Columbia avenue, and Dick Theaker, 164 South Adams street. They think the cub is about a month old. Its diet has been switched to milk and cereal since its been introduced to civilization.

Mansfield Prepares For Spring Clean-Up

Trash pick up assignments were announced yesterday as posters and pamphlets stressing the clean-up and proper rat control drives were readied for distribution in Mansfield this week.

Distribution of pamphlets will be made by the Chamber of Commerce's fire prevention committee and the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Mansfielders will be expected to have their residences cleaned out and trash on the curbs in front of their homes by May 4 when city trucks begin collecting the year's accumulation of trash.

Wards One and Two and South Boulevards will have their junk picked up by the city trucks on May 4. Wards Three and Four will have the collection on May 5, and the completion of the city's clean-up will be held May 6 when Wards Five and Six will be cleaned out by the city trucks.

Salvagable materials, such as old furniture, clothing, magazines, or books, uncovered during house cleaning, would be appreciated by any of the four charitable institutions in Mansfield. The Volunteers of America, Salvation Army, Friendly House, and the Angel Refuge are all interested in such materials. They have asked to be called if such material is available and they will have it picked up before the trash trucks arrive.

In addition to the above materials the Volunteers of America want old newspapers and will have one of their trucks precede the city's trucks to gather them. Adjutant R. L. Gutterman of the Volunteers has asked that all such bundles of papers be securely tied so the wind will not blow the paper away.

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn officially designated the week of May 1 through May 7 as "Clean-up, Fix-up, Paint-up and Control Rats Week" with the following proclamation issued Saturday:

"To the Citizens of Mansfield:

"Whereas, spring housecleaning has always been a custom of our people because of a prevalent desire to brighten the home with the first signs of warm weather, and,

"Whereas, it is only logical to assume that with the tidying of a dwelling, the outside premises may bear the brunt of all sorts of trash and papers, which in addition to detracting from the beauty of rear lawns and driveways, create a dangerous fire and health hazard, and,

"Whereas, it is to the best interests of the city and its residents to beautify their homes and surroundings from the point of increasing property values and city pride, and,

"Whereas, the removal of trash, paper, and refuse, which accumulates throughout the winter, will eliminate fire and health hazards,

Now, therefore, I, Roy W. Vaughn, mayor of the City of Mansfield, hereby declare the week of May 1st to May 7th as 'Clean-up, Fix-up, Paint-up, and Control Rats Week' and sincerely request all Mansfield citizens to cooperate with the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce Fire Prevention committee, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and the City of Mansfield in this clean-up project."

(Signer) ROY W. VAUGHN.

Bank Shows Lincoln Manuscript

A reproduction of the original manuscript of Lincoln's Baltimore address is on display in the lobby of the Richland Trust company.

The paper, in the Emancipator's own handwriting, is exhibited just 85 years after Lincoln made the address at the Sanitary Fair in Baltimore.

One of the documents on the Freedom Train, the Baltimore address is famous for Lincoln's definition of the word "Liberty." Accompanying the document is an historical background written by Dr. Frank Monaghan, historical consultant to the American Heritage Foundation, sponsors of the Freedom Train.

Dr. Monaghan's report gives a brief background to Lincoln's Baltimore address and other excerpts from the address in which Lincoln gives his famous definition.

This is one of 26 interesting and important American historical documents that have been reproduced from the originals in the Fredom Train, and are being brought to this community as a public service of the Richland Trust company.

Buy County Supplies to Treat Roads

Commissioners OK Purchase of Oil

Purchase of road oil and bituminous material to treat Richland county highways was authorized yesterday by the county commissioners. County Engineer Walter E. Rusk had advertised for bids to supply the county and five townships—Madison, Plymouth, Weller, Jackson and Springfield.

Commissioners authorized the purchase of 80,000 gallons of road oil from the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company at a price of 12 cents per gallon. They also ordered 20,000 gallons of bituminous material from R. W. Smith of Newark at 12.5 cents per gallon.

The entire bid of the Newark company called for supplying 138,200 gallons of road oil for the county and the townships at a price of 11.95 cents per gallon for a total price of $16,514.90 while the bid of the Mansfield firm was to supply the same quantity at a price of 12 cents per gallon for a price of $16,584.

Rusk recommended to the commissioners the road oil be purchased from the Mansfield firm since, he said, nothing was known of Smith's facilities for supplying the oil.

Rusk said the Mansfield firm had adequate storage and distribution facilities. He added there would be a possibility of having to pay oil car demurrage charges in case the purchase was made from the Newark firm and the oil could not be used immediately on delivery.

Smith's bid on the bituminous material was to supply 40,000 gallons at 12.5 cents per gallon for a price of $5,000. The commissioners are purchasing 20,000 gallons of that material from Smith, and Rusk said he would recommend to the townships requiring that materials that they purchase them from Smith.

The Mansfield firm's bid was to supply the 40,000 gallons of that material at 14 cents per gallon for $5,600.

City Manager Plan Display At Library

For those who would like to further inform themselves about the council-manager plan of municipal government as compared with other forms, a special display of books and pamphlets has been arranged at the Public library.

Mansfield voters, according to present plans, will decide at the next general election if the city is to adopt the council-manager plan or continue with its present mayor-council system.

The books and pamphlets are arranged in the hallway, just a few yards from the main doors at the library.

Planes Are Hobby of CAP Commander

By BOB SCHWEITZ

Edmund Pankow, commander of the Mansfield Civil Air Patrol squadron, began flying back in 1941 and since then airplanes have become his main hobby. He has more than 400 pilot hours on his log now, and is a member of two local flying clubs.

He was one of the original members of the Mansfield Flying club organized in 1942 to make flying available to a greater number of persons.

The clubs are made up of several individuals owning and flying the same planes. By being a member of the two clubs, Pankow can fly in either a silver Luscombe owned by one group or the four-passenger Fairchild owned by the other.

Pankow has been a CAP member since its start in 1941. The organization was an auxiliary to the U. S. Air force during the war. If flew supplies and materials in its planes for the army. Now it functions as a "feeder" for the USAF, Pankow explained.

While doing its job of interesting young men in flying it trains them in navigation, communications, meteorology, and civil air regulations.

Pilot Penkow received his appointment as CAP squadron commander April 1, this year. He meets with the squadron every Wednesday evening in Hangar 7 at Municipal airport. The organization is now engaged in a recruiting drive for senior and cadet members.

Mr. and Mrs. Pankow live at 71 Greenwood avenue. Last spring they traveled in the two-passenger Luscombe to Watertown, Wis. They plan to make the same flight this year with their son Tom, 17, and daughter Nova, 13, in the Fairchild. Pankow is an electrical designer in the range division at Westinghouse.

Novelist Will Visit Capital

At 9:30 a. m. Mrs. Williams will be heard over Station WBNS on the Fern Sharp program. At 10:30 a. m. she will go to the Ohio State university station to make a transcribed interview which will be used May 2.

A full schedule of afternoon and evening engagements begins at 1 p. m. when she will be the guest at a luncheon given by Lazarus department store. A cocktail party, given by former News-Journal writer, Frances G. Nunmaker, will be held for the press at 4 p. m. Miss Nunmaker is now with the state library of the Ohio Department of Education.

Mrs. Williams will speak on her novel at 7:30 p. m. when she will be presented in the assembly center of Lazarus store. Following that, Columbus newspaper women will honor her with a dinner.

Mrs. Williams said that a part-time leave of absence has been granted her by the executive committee of the Community Chest, with which she serves as secretary. The leave of absence will cover the months of May, June and July. Mrs Williams will take a one-third reduction of pay during that period. She will return to full-time duty on Aug. 1.

Alumni Plan 2 Meetings

John Beacham, Wittenberg college's newly-appointed alumni secretary will be the principal speaker at two Mansfield area meetings during the coming week, April 24-29.

The Mansfield chapter of the Wittenberg Women's Guild meeting Monday evening, April 25, at the First Lutheran church, will be addressed by Bsacham on the subject, "Small Family Colleges."

Beacham's second visit of the week to Mansfield will be for an Alumni association meeting for the area on the evening of Friday, April 29. The meeting, featuring a pot-luck dinner, will be held in the basement of St. Luke's Lutheran church.

Woodville Club Elects

Robert Day will head the Woodville Community club for the coming year. He was elected president at a meeting Friday night held in the East Mansfield school auditorium.

Other new officers include Doyle Minard, vice-president; Mrs. Paul Frye, secretary; and Gilbert Logan, treasurer.

A committee was named to make arrangements for the school picnic at North Lake park May 18. Darl Stoffer presided at the meeting.

Following the meeting, students of Woodville school presented an operetta, "The Wedding of the Flowers." The entire student body composed the cast of the operetta which ended with a miniature wedding.

Judy Fischer played the part of the bride, and the groom was played by Gilbert Boals.

Mrs. Maxine Seig, singing instructor, arranged the vocal selections for the operetta, and Mrs. Grace Lincoln played the accompaniment on the piano.

Members Receive 4-H Project Books

The Sew-Sew 4-H club of Shenandoah met at the home of Arleen Cuppy with 10 members and one visitor attending the meeting.

Arleen Cuppy demonstrated how to put in a hem, and members received their project books.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Evelyn Heuberger May 2.

Vet Griped By Unwanted House on Lot

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A World War I veteran, John Chivinski, complained Friday the government built a house on his "vacant lot" in Akron.

He bought the lot when he returned from World War I. Later he moved to Polo, Mo., and then to Washington. But he kept paying taxes on the lot each year.

Recently he learned the Public Housing administration built a house on his lot four years age. He complained to the agency. It offered him a flat $105 for four years' back rent and $17.50 a month from now on.

Chivinski, however, says he's being "Gypped." The government, he added, is collecting $35 a month rent on the house.

Four Cases To Be Heard

Jury Trials Set In County Seat

Four personal injury suits have been scheduled for hearing this week in Common Pleas court. Assignment Clerk Charles A. McKinley announced yesterday. The cases will be heard by juries.

Another case set for Wednesday was filed by Mrs. Minnie J. Fox, 137 West Cook road, against John S. and Dorothy A. George of 317 Park avenue west. She asks $15,000 for personal injuries she claims she received while employed to hang paper at the George home.

Mrs. Fox said she stepped into an open furnace register, causing a fracture of her left ankle and dislocation of the le ft foot. Her petition says she has been unable to work for 29 weeks.

The action names E. J. Egner and Son, Inc., Galion, and Cecil C. Kendall of Newark.

In another action set for Thursday, Galen E. Zolman of 164 Burns street, asks a judgment of $20,000 from Zeno L. Hursch of Shelby, R. D. 3.

Seeks Boost In Pay for Teachers

OEA Explains Stand on Issue

By H. H. DAUGHERTY

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The powerful school lobby shows its stand this week on a gross receipts tax bill to supplant the present sales tax law.

The Ohio Education association this week began distribution of 40,000 pamphlets endorsing the gross receipts tax. It pointed out if enacted into law sufficient additional revenue would be raised to guarantee school teachers a flat $25 a month salary increase.

The pamphlets were distributed among persons, who would be able to exert pressure on members of the legislature to support both the gross receipts tax and the proposed teachers' salary increase.

No mention is made, however, in the education association pamphlet concerning use of any of the additional revenue for improving the physical properties of the state's educational system. A bill already approved by the Senate education committee would appropriate $31,500,000 for this purpose.

The proposed gross sales tax law, its sponsor, Sen. Emmett R. Guthery (D.-Coshocton) says, would add $50,000,000 annually to the present net sales tax receipts. About $9,000,000 of this amount, it is claimed, would be saving in administration of the present tax.

The proposed new tax virtually would restore the first one cent of the sales tax which was eliminated by the last legislature and establish new brackets which, it is claimed, would make the average yield three per cent. Merchants, therefore, would pay the state a flat three percent on their gross receipts.

Brackets proposed by the Guthery bill are one cent on sales from 17 cents to 49 cents, both inclusive; two cents on sales from 50 cents to 83 cents, both inclusive, and three cents on sales from 84 cents to $1.16, both inclusive. The first 16 cents of any purchase would be exempt.

The purchaser is supposed to pay the tax to the merchant, but there is no way to determine whether the latter ever collects the tax from the purchaser. The merchant must account for the tax to the state. A merchant thus might charge a price for an article which he could say includes the tax. He also might make his price quotations subject to the tax.

Under the present sales tax law, the merchant is required to collect the tax direct from the purchaser without concealing it in the purchase price. As proof that he has collected the tax from the purchaser he is required to give the purchaser prepaid tax receipts.

Former Gov. George White, who forced legislative enactment of the present sales tax, was able to get it only by making a concession to the Association of Retail Merchants that the pre-paid tax receipts be included as part of the administrative procedure. The Retail Merchants association insisted that only by giving out the tax receipts, could ruinous price cutting be avoided.

The proposed tax would exempt only food, gasoline, seeds, fertilizer, materials used in manufacturing, water and telephone service, newspapers, the state and its political subdivisions and religious institutions. The tax would be collected on gas and electric bills.

Author Gives Clues to 'Detective Story'

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — (AP) — Sidney Kingsley, the playwright whose "Detective Story" won superlatives from the critics, got his background for it from New York's precinct police stations. Yet he ignored the incidents he saw there.

"You can't write a play by reporting dope addicts and thieves Kingsley said.

"You go to a police station to see how they process a criminal, and to pick up manners of speech. Then you start writing, and if a murder helps you say something better, you create one.

"But reporting a real murder, for the sake of realism, won't do. None of the incidents in 'Detective Story' really happened. They were contrived."

Kingsley followed this process when he wrote "Men in White," 15 years ago, and again in "Dead End," which was produced in 1935.

"I hung around hospitals for three years," Kingsley went on, absorbing background and atmosphere. But this was to get the feel of hospitals, not material for a play. None of the incidents I saw in hospitals was in 'Men in White' They were all created."

"Dead End," a play on social injustice, dealt with kids who grow into gangsters because they haven't the proper kind of environment.

"When I lived on 52nd street," said Kingsley, "I used to sit on the piers and write. I got to know a lot of kids, how they talked, and what their home life was like. That, gave me the idea for 'Dead End, but naturally, the incidents in it were my own inventions."

In this sense, New York's police stations gave Kingsley the background for "Detective Story."

His central character concerns Detective McLeod (Ralph Bellamy) a man who doesn't believe in democratic processes because he feels the Bill of Rights doesn't function 100 per cent perfectly. He is archaic, a symbol of absolutism.

"Your democracy is a Rube Goldberg contraption," he says.

This comes of his conviction that a certain doctor is guilty of abortions, through technical proof is lacking.

If the democratic process sometimes bungles and protects criminals, McLeod sneers, they ought to get rid of it.

In frustration, he beats the doctor, who feigns fatal injury and names McLeod's wife as a former client.

Kingsley's thesis is whether a man should judge his wife for a very human error, when he is unable to compromise his principles though his future happiness depends on it.

"I feel that we are at the dawn of a new creation," he said in an interview. "A whole new world is in the making. Out of this chaos must come a world security. The issue is whether human rights are to be a society of free men, or a society of ants."

I took this to mean that even so odious a man as the doctor must be given his rights until convicted and judged by the law.

Happenings In Hollywood

Smart Gal Makes Dough Playing Dumb

By HOWARD C. HEYN

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Look what Marie Wilson can do on two vitamin pills a day:

Ahe gets up at 6, to work in a picture. That lasts until 6 p. m. Then she rushes home to change for a nightly stage appearance. Sometime after midnight she gets to bed.

That goes on every day of the week except Sunday. And on Sunday she does two stage appearances.

On Saturday, in addition to spending the morning on her picture role, she does three stage appearances But that isn't all. There's Monday. That day the studio lets her go at noon--so that she can spend the afternoon rehearsing for her radio show. Early in the evening she goes on the air. Then off to the theater for her regular stage stint.

In every medium in which she works, Miss Wilson is supposed to be blank-faced and brainless. She's the dumb secretary on the radio show "My Friend Irma" and in the movie version of that broadcast, now being filmed. For years she has been the fixture and foil on Ken Murray's stage show, "Blackouts."

Actually, she's sharp as a tack. But one of her principal assets--and her chief dramatic device — is her ability to look stupid. This expression which drops like a mask when she wills it, is incredible convincing.

Her last picture, two years ago, was "Bel Ami" and it is a long time since Warner Bros. starred her, yet she is one of the most successful performers in Hollywood.

Sleep is a luxury. She can do without it almost indefinitely, yet she catnaps whenever she gets a chance. If there's a bed on an unused movie set, you'll usually find Marie stretched out on it Most remarkable about this schedule of hers is her good humor: she is never too tired to chat or to be a party to a set-side gag.

How does she do it? Well all she'll confess to is the two vitamin tablets None of the other vitamin takers will believe her, of course.

She does hint at one other thing. "When I'm through at night I don't go nightclubbing. I'm always hungry, but I go home. Raiding the icebox is about the only diversion I can find time for."

Dog Business Again Active In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — The dog business in Hollywood is picking up, and it may be a sign of the times.

Chinook, a 2-year-old German shepherd dog, has just been given a movie contract paying $500 a week. That's pretty good, considering the recent slump at film studios.

Chinook has a flexible contract, graduating up to $1250 a week if he stays in the business long enough and if all his options are picked up. This puts him in a category shared by about four other trained movie dogs. But Lassie, the collie, is still top dog: $1,000 a week.

★

New Hamlet Version Uses Only One Set

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Francis Lederer says he has completed a version of "Hamlet" which confines all the action of the play to one set He doesn't say what he's going to do with it.

In any event, the accomplishment is the result of 10 years work--the kind of intellectual hobby for which Lederer is well known. His "Hamlet" plan centers all the scenes (and logically, he insists) on a set representing part of a castle.

Lederer, working at the moment in the film "After Midnight" admits he has edited Shakespeare's play somewhat, but no more than is often done in conventional presentations. The idea, he said, came to him while he was appearing on the European stage years ago.

Rod Cameron Finds Schedule Too Heavy

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Rod Cameron finds himself in the position of making too many pictures at a time when the industry has been complaining that not enough films are in production.

Cameron has commitments for six pictures a year. He lost a role lately, a role he wanted to play, because studio executives felt they would be competing with too many other Rod Cameron pictures.

As a result, Cameron is reported to have instructed his lawyers to see if his commitment schedule can't be lightened. One of his contracts calls for ten pictures in five years. At the moment he's working in "Brimstone," at Republic.

Studio Tracks Down Actor for Film Role

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — An actor less seasoned than Guy Kibbee might wonder just what happened. But Kibbee knows how Hollywood does things.

Columbia studio suddenly decided it wanted Kibbee right now for a comedy role. Kibbee was on a personal appearance tour Producer Harry Joe Brown chased him by telephone through half a dozen states, and finally caught up with him in New York.

Brown signed him by phone, instructed him not to shave, and told him to board a plane for Hollywood that night.

A car met him at the airport the next morning at 7, with wardrobe man, wardrobe and makeup man waiting. They whisked Kibbee directly to Lone Pine, Calif., 200 miles northeast, where the Randolph Scott picture "Lawless" was on location. Kibbee went before the cameras that afternoon.

Curtain Call

64 Pictures Lead at Top Money Films

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Not the $64 question but the 64 top profit pictures released from Hollywood in the last few years is the big news in Variety.

That holy text of the threatrical world puts Margaret Mitchell's deathless "Gone With the Wind" at the top of the list with gross receipts of $22,000,000. That's worth a headline any day.

All of the 64 top grossers have earned, or give promise of earning, a minimum of $4,000,000 in U. S. and Canada rentals. The Scarlet O'Hara — Rhett Butler saga was released in '39 by MGM.

But it's worth a second glance that the 1947 release, "Best Years of Our Lives" runs second with $10,170,000 in gross receipts. Give the "Best Years" a few more seasons and it's likely to outshine the "Wind."

The other first ten in box office include: "Duel in the Sun," third with $8,700,000; "This Is the Army," $8,500,000; "The Jolson Story," $8,000,000; "Bells of St. Mary's," $8,000,000; "Going My Way," $6,500,000; "For Whom the Bell Tolls, $6,300,000; "Welcome Stranger," $6,100,000, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," $6,000,000.

"Johnny Belinda" which got Jane Wyman an Oscar this year, is listed as 52nd on the list with a return of $4,100,000 to date.

Just like the Mitchell masterpiece, MGM stays at the top of the 64 top notchers in production turnout. MGM produced 23 of the 64 top flighters. Paramount was next with 13; 20th Century, followed with six; Warners Bros. pricked up four and Columbia, Universal and Metro studios had one apiece.

The $16,500 Ayrshire bull, owned by President C. E. Wilson of General Motors corporation, dislocated his spine last summer.

An operation was performed at the Wilson family's Windrows Farms near Oxford, Mich. Metal plates were fastened along the nine-year-old animal's spine under the hide.
